Kidnaped Florida Boy Slain, Father Believes

FBI 'Kidnap Squad' Presses Search For New Leads As Posses Drop Hunt.

(By Associated Press)

PRINCETON, Fla.—Wearied, grief-ridden James Bailey Cash said today he was resigned to the death of his only child but convinced the kidnap-slayers would be caught.

Cash, his shoulders bent by fatigue and his eyes bloodshot from sleepless nights, appeared briefly on the porch of his home to express to reporters his thanks to the 2,000 persons who hunted fruitlessly for the blond five-year-old boy snatched from his bedroom last Saturday.

Believes Solution Near.

Asked if he thought the case would be solved, he said:

"Yes, I think so, as far as catching the fellows who did it is concerned. Once we catch them we will be able to find out what they did with the boy."

He indicated he had given up all hope of finding James, jr., alive.

"I expect a break within the next week of ten days," he said but declined to amplify the statement.

The stricken father said Mrs. Cash still was under a physician's care but was "some better." Like himself, she had abandoned hope for her blue-eyed son's life.

With the baffling case entering routine phases of investigation, most of the 2,000 persons who tramped in vain over 120 square miles of territory bordering the everglades returned to their homes.

Hunt More 'Leads.'

But the squad of federal agents headed by J. Edgar Hoover worked diligently on every lead, mindful of the fact almost a week had passed since the Cash boy was stolen from his bed last Saturday night.

Agents continued to question a number of persons—Hoover called them "voluntary witnesses"—at Federal Bureau of Investigation headquarters in Miami. Hoover said no one had been charged with the crime.

PUSH DRIVE

New Dealers Seek 10 Measures Before Congress Quits.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— With a bitter political campaign already in progress, New Deal leaders today decided to "ride herd" on congress in an effort to enact 10 important measures and adjourn the session by June 11.

Night sessions in both senate and house were planned, if necessary, to crush recalcitrant blocs. Passage of the $3,700,000,000 lend-and-spend recovery bill by a 60 to 10 vote in the senate last night swelled the confidence of leaders.

In spite of the adjournment drive, there were dangerous possibilities of angry controversies which would prolong the session.

BRITAIN WINS CUP MATCHES

Defeats U. S. 7 To 4 To Get 1st Victory In 16-Year International Series.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland—(AP)—Great Britain's Walker Cup golf team today defeated the United States, 7 matches to 4, with one halved, for Britain's first victory in the International series that began in 1922.

Going into the final day's singles competition with a 2-1 lead gained in yesterday's Scotch foursomes, the Britons won five of the eight singles tests to take the cup after nine successive U. S. victories.

It was Alex Kyle of England, No 8 in the singles line-up, who came through with the triumph that clinched the British victory. Kyle turned back Fred Hass, jr., of New Orleans, 5 and 4, to make the standing 6 matches to 4, and Cecil Ewing, giant Irishman who lost to Charley Yates in the British Amateur final last Saturday, then made the final score 7 to 4 with a one-up decision over Ray Billows of Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

The other British winners were Hector Thomson of Scotland, by 6 and 4 over U. S. Amateur Champion Johnny Goodman, who never got on his game; Charles Stowe of England, by 2 and 1 over Charles (Chuck) Kocsis of Detroit, and Gordon Peters, another Scot, by 9 and 8 over Reynolds Smith of Dallas, who failed to solve the riddle of the vast, lightning-fast St. Andrews greens.

FIRST VICTIM

Clevelander Suffers Burned Hand As Firecracker Explodes.

CLEVELAND —(U.P.)— The first firecracker casualty of the season was recorded today with the burning of William Ryan, 24.

Ryan was walking through Lincoln park here when he saw a boy toss a lighted firecracker into a group of boys. Ryan picked up the firecracker and was about to throw it away when it went off in his hand.

HELD IN 2 ROBBERIES

DAYTON —(U.P.)— Police today held M. D. Beam, 24, as a suspect in connection with two robberies here. Beam was captured at a grocery operated by Russell Richards last night.

Park Dedication Tomorrow Climaxes 5 Years of Work

Ceremonies at City's Newest Recreation Spot, Liberty Park, Open With Parade; Varied Program Arranged.

Mansfield formally dedicates Liberty park tomorrow, an emblem of five years of work for public-spirited citizens, and pays honor to the memory of Frankie Fisch, one of the city's greatest athletes.

Built over a five-year period at a cost of more than $100,000, the park is the newest and perhaps the best equipped of any in the city. Funds for its construction were raised by public subscription and from a WPA grant. Covering a 25-acre area, it was opened to the public late last summer.

Governor to Speak.

Joining in the dedicatory program will be 400 Ohio National Guardsmen and Gov. Martin L. Davey, who is scheduled to speak tomorrow afternoon.

The guardsmen, who are to arrive at 4 p. m. today, will encamp back of the park. Representing 134th Field Artillery units in seven central Ohio cities, the militia will be under Col. T. R. Leahy and Lieut. Roy D. Prushing of Columbus.

The dedication program will get under way at 1:15 p. m. Sunday with a parade of the army units and American Legion Drum corps through the city from the Legion home to the park.

The parade route will be from the Legion home on Park avenue west, eastward on Park avenue and the Ashland road to Central avenue, north to Grace street, and east on Grace street to the park entrance. Members of the army band and Legion Drum corps will march only to Foster street, and from there will ride to the park in buses.

Gov. Davey is scheduled to speak from a platform near the flag pole in the park at 2:40 p. m., his talk immediately following the dedication of the Fisch memorial at the base of the flag pole.

As a fitting tribute to Fisch, a lover of aviation, three army

LEAVE 5 DEAD

Wind, Lightning Reap Life, Property Toll In West.

WICHITA FALLS, Tex.—(AP)—Tornadic winds, lightning and hail killed five persons and wreaked heavy crop and property damage in widely separated portions of Texas, Oklahoma and Missouri yesterday and last night.

Explosion of an oil tank ignited by lightning killed Joe Battle, 36, and John Spell, 26, employes of the Machank Petroleum company at Eholding, Tex. A. H. Marx, another workman, was injured seriously.

In Kansas City lightning killed two spectators at the $5,000 Kansas City open golf tournament. William D. Boyle, contractor, and E. M. Critchfield, a credit manager. Several others were injured.

Hubert Arlen Thomas jr., 6, was electrocuted at Lawton, Okla., when he walked into a radio aerial which had blown across a high tension line.

PERU, ECUADOR FORTIFY LINES

New Threat Breaks Out in 400-Year-Old Dispute.

BUENOS AIRES —(U.P.)— Peru and Ecuador sent reinforcements to the wild Oriente jungle territory today, and fortified their defense lines, as their most recent frontier incident again threatened to cause war over their 400-year-old boundary dispute.

Peruvian and Ecuadorian governments, in statements issued at Lima and Quito, exchanged charges that as the result of a border clash, the other side was preparing for a fight.

Ecuador said that strong contingents of Peruvian troops had arrived in the Tumbes district and that hence Ecuador had ordered reinforcements

TAKE FUGITIVE BACK TO JAIL

Wisconsin Sheriff, Aids Return Jail Breaker; Pleads Guilty To School Robbery.

Jevons Zalinsky, 31-year-old New Yorker was on his way back to Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., today to return to the ail from which he fled three weeks ago while awaiting sentence for the traffic deaths of three persons.

Captured by ansfield police after the burglary and attempted safecracking of the Senior high school, Zalinsky pleaded guilty to charges of breaking and entering in municipal court this morning and was bound over to the grand jury under $5,000 bond.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates waived rights of custody and turned Zalinsky over to Wisconsin officers who left immediately on the 600-mile drive.

Sheriff Henry J. Becker, of Wood county, Wis., in whose custody Zalinsky was placed, said the man faced charges of first degree manslaughter on three separate counts, jail breaking and breaking and entering in Wisconsin.

He said the man had escaped

COWBOY'S WOES

Galion Youth Names Montana Meechy, Band In Charges.

BUCYRUS — (INS) — "Montana" Meechy, cowboy band leader, was charged in a warrant filed by Kenzel McClenathan, 22, of Galion today with assault with intent to kill following an altercation at Sugar Grave lake, near Bucyrus.

McClenathan also swore out eight "John Doe" warrants for the arrest of members of Meechy's band on similar charges.

The Galion youth told Prosecutor Leo Scanlon that Meechy drew a gun and fired two shots during a quarrel. McClenathan said Meechy tried to separate he and an unidentified youth who were fighting. The shooting followed, McClenathan said.

He charged Meechy hit him on the head with the butt of the gun, inflicting a cut which required 14 stitches to close, according to Scanlon.

SUSPECT IN AX SLAYING JAILED

Sheriff Says Widow of Victim Identifies Alleged Killer.

GRAFTON, N. H.—(AP)—John Henry Gray, 54, formerly of Lowell, Mass., wanted for questioning in the ax slaying of Paul Barris, 24, and Earl Cullen, 4, was taken into custody at Lebanon, N. H.

Claude M. Murray, Grafton county sheriff, said Gray had been identified by Barris' widow as the slayer. Mrs. Barris is Gray's stepgranddaughter.

Murray said Mrs. Barris told him Gray had quarreled with Barris over wages he claimed were due him for cutting wood.

DRAFTS OUSTER

Cleveland Crime Group Hits Sheriff in Gambling Ban.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—William E. Edwards, operating director of the Cleveland Crime Commission, said today ouster petitions against Sheriff Martin L. O'Donnell were being drafted. The commission had demanded under threat of removal action that O'Donnell close three large gambling establishments. The sheriff said he gave subordinates instructions to obtain evidence against the clubs.

QUIET RIOTING

Troops On Guard In Island Town After 4 Die.

KINGSTON, Jamaica — (U.P.) — Strong forces of troops were on guard today in the Islington area, near Kingston, where four deaths occurred yesterday in a fight between police and a mob which seized the village and looted shops.

The disorders were a result of the wave of strikes which have spread through the island.

Registrations Open Monday For Annual Soap Box Derby

Registrations for the second annual News-Journal Soap Box Derby will open bright and early Monday morning.

Entry blanks for the motorless races to be staged on a date to be selected late in July may be signed at the Derby headquarters at the Y. M. C. A. or Mohican Chevrolet company, 140 Park avenue east.

The Chevrolet agency and Y. M. C. A. are co-sponsors in the promotion of the contest in which Mansfield will qualify a champion for the All-American Finals to be held in Akron in mid-August.

There is no cost to enter or compete in the Derby, but no boy will be permitted to enter unless he has parental consent.

In other words, dad or mother must give their written consent before junior can compete.

This means that a mother, father or legal guardian must accompany the boy to the registration offices to sign the official entry blank.

Every boy in Mansfield and Richland county between the ages of 9 and 15 is eligible to compete in the classic which attracted the largest crowd ever to witness an event in the city last year.

$6,000 IN 6 DAYS – FINAL PLEA OF FUND

Emergency Campaign To Open Monday In Effort To Save Drive From Failure.

MAKE CITY-WIDE APPEAL

Those Who Refused To Be Asked Again; Those Who Gave Urged to Hike Pledge.

Six thousand dollars in six days!

With this objective an intensive campaign will be launched Monday morning to clear up the deficit in the Community Fund budget for 1938-39. The campaign will be city-wide and every resident will be given an opportunity to contribute.

Plans for the emergency drive were made last night when 35 Mansfielders who are interested in the Community Fund met at the Public library. Jesse Beer, principal of Senior high school was named chairman of the emergency committee.

Say Goal Is Minimum.

Fund officials explained the seriousness of the situation if the original goal of $53,950, the minimum on which the 10 welfare agencies can operate for a year, is not reached.

There is every possibility, fund officials said, that if the budget is not subscribed now, each agency will be forced to conduct an independent campaign to raise its own funds sometime next fall, which in the end will mean the dissolution of the Community Fund center.

Map 'Attack.'

Several lines of "attack" were mapped by the committee and will be launched Monday morning. Two classes of citizens who have been contacted once during the campaign of the past month will be approached again: those who refused to give anything, and those who gave but who may be depended upon to increase their contributions because of their interest in their community, or some particular agency of the Fund.

Contribution centers will be set up throughout the down-town section for the dollar gifts and even for the "widow's mite." Workers will be stationed at these places to receive contributions from persons who were not contacted in the last few weeks or who can add a little more to what they have already given.

There will be workers each day

BABY KILLED IN 16-STORY FALL

Child Wrested From Mother's Arms As She Tugs on Wire.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Vexed by her maid's announcement she was quitting, Mrs. Lillian Jacobs wept.

Then, because her eyes were red, Mrs. Jacobs was ashamed to take her 7-month-old daughter, Karan, out for her usual day's airing.

Instead she took the child to the roof of her Riverside drive apartment.

The baby, attracted by a glistening radio aerial dangling above her at the roof's edge, grabbed it and tugged strongly. The sudden movement jerked her from her mother's arms, and the baby tumbled 16 floors to death.

ASSEMBLY HITS RELIEF HOPES

Kills Tax Levy Plan, Chances For Early Program Fades; City Pays Off $6,000.

The Mansfield relief situation today was thrown into a more chaotic state by action of the state legislature yesterday in killing one major relief bill and badly crippling another.

Known as the Almendinger bill, the measure would have enabled municipalities to finance part of their relief costs by levying taxes now reserved to the state. It was overwhelmingly defeated when it received only 37 favorable votes as against 70 negative votes.

The deluge of unfavorable votes left high in the air the question of raising releif funds, for the local tax plan was considered the keystone of a program tentatively agreed upon by the state administration, legislative leaders and city officials.

Before adjourning however, the legislators passed the Ladermande bill appropriating $1,000,000 from the state highway fund to be re-

TAX TIME NEARS

Collection Of Second Half Real Estate Levy Opens July 5.

The Fourth of July holiday and then taxpaying time again. That's the schedule for Richland countians announced today by County Treasurer John E. Kolb.

Tax books for the second half real estate and special assessment collection will open Tuesday, July 5, and before the books close Aug. 20, the treasurer hopes to collect most of the $891,805 due for the last half of the year. The total charge for the year is $1,513,176.

Receipts were high the first half in view of business conditions, and $621,370 was collected, Kolb said. Of the amount still due for the year, $749,218 represents the current charge, while the delinquent levies total $142,587.

ROOSEVELT TO GET FREE HAND FOR SPENDING

$3,723,000,000 Fund Approved To Finance And Extend Huge Plan To Fight Slump.

VICTORY FOR NEW DEAL

Measure Passes 60 To 10 And Makes Adjournment Possible Late Next Week.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The senate gave President Roosevelt a $3,723,000,000 appropriation and authorization bill today to finance — and extend — his $5,000,000,000 lending-spending program against depression.

Senate approval of the bill, which had been passed by the house, came a few minutes before midnight last night by a vote of 60 to 10. It made possible the adjournment of congress by next week. Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley (D., Ky.) expected quick conference agreements on this bill and the wages and hours bill. They are the only major pieces of legislation remaining.

No Limitations.

After 11 days of attack in the senate by the combined forces of Republicans and anti-New Deal Democrats, the recovery bill emerged unscathed. No restrictions were placed on the spending and lending of vast sums to create jobs for approximately 4,000,000 of the unemployed army which, Mr. Roosevelt said, has increased since he requested the money six weeks ago.

As approved by the senate the legislation is a triumph for the president, who had demanded a free hand in spending the huge fund, and a stinging defeat for the anti-New Deal coalition which had sought to earmark the money as a safeguard against political reprisals.

Only one limitation was placed on Mr. Roosevelt's spending authority and it was imposed with administration consent. The president will be permitted to divert only $125,000,000 of the proposed $1,425,000,000 progress administration fund to direct relief.

Not Largest Fund.

Despite its size the bill is not the largest appropriation in history, or even of the New Deal. The 1935 appropriation topped it with a total of $4,880,000,000.

Technically, the bill is now back

'Safety Town' To Be Reopened At Prospect June 20

"Safety Town" with its miniature streets and small scale traffic light, where pre-school children are taught their traffic ABC's will open June 20 under the direction of the city recreation department at Prospect park.

The idea of the miniature street layout and tiny traffic light as a means of teaching pre-school children traffic regulations will be extended to all city playgrounds this summer, Patrolman Frend C. Boals who conceived the idea last summer, said.

Boals explained that with the co-operation of the recreation department "Safety Town" will be moved to all the city's playlots for a two-week period in order to make the training city-wide.

"Safety Town" consists of a miniature city laid out in streets with four intersections, and a main intersection at which a traffic light is operated by remote control by the playground supervisor.

The kiddies' cycles, scooters and wagons play a game called "motorist" and "pedestrian." They are taught just what the various colored lights are, when to cross the street and when to wait for the motorist

77-Year-Old Ashlander Joins 114 Others In 265-Mile Walk

(By International News Service)

CLEVELAND—(INS)—Plenty of youthful competition doesn't disturb Ard Blackford, 77-year-old Ashland specialist in the art of hiking.

He was one of the 115 registered walkers who set out today, after much fanfare, on a 265-mile walk to Dansville, N. Y. Mayor Harold H. Burton was the official starter.

Hatless and in shirtsleeves, and wearing a determined look, Blackford stepped along with the best of them as the walkers, young and old, headed eastward.

Interviewed as he marched along toward Dansville, Blackford snorted when he was asked if he could keep up with the youngsters.

"They'll have to step a lot faster to keep up with me," he said. "I've stepped on a half dozen heels already."

Blackford said he regularly walks 15 miles "every sabbath" but this is the longest walk he's ever undertaken. He is so certain that he'll be among the finishers that he revealed he may even walk home from Dansville.

"I believe I'll walk back from there to Ashland," he said, "only I'll probably take a more direct route coming back."

The hikers are to walk 19 miles a day for 14 consecutive days. The sponsors call it a "health hike", and will award prizes to the man and woman who put on the most weight, who cultivate the best coat of tan, and who otherwise show the most health benefits from the 265-mile jaunt.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, June 5.

Sunday's horoscope is a very important one with presage of sudden and far-reaching developments, probably most vitally affecting the social, domestic or romantic affiliations. Drastic change may be looked for, with travels, removal, new interests and contacts. This might all be incidental to a bereavement. It is not a fortuitous condition for dealing with superiors or asking favors.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of most surprising and sudden developments, possibly affecting the whole course of life and its fortunes. There may be decisive change, removal, travel and adventure, particularly affecting the romantic, social or domestic life. A death or bereavement may bring this upheaval about. It is not a favorable time to seek the friendly aid or preferment from superiors and those in authority.

A child born on this day may have much talent in original lines, with an adventurous spirit and independence in thought and action. It may have a rather influential life and much romantic adventure.

* * *

For Monday, June 9.

Monday's astrological forecast is for a particularly lively and interesting day, with much stirring in the handling of papers, writings, publications and promotion. With wise judgment these should thrive, but there is a menace of rash and impetuous conduct which might offset benefits. Shun disputes, contention, litigation and all reckless activities. Although there are signs of romance, yet there may be a disagreeable contact with a woman, perhaps elderly.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a very interesting year in which papers, documents, writings or publicity may be important and should bring success. But a predisposition to disputes, quarrels, sharp speech and much impetuosity hold menace, particularly of unfavorable litigation. Feminine influence is shown both romantically and also detrimentally.

A child born on this day may be extremely versatile, clever, original, constructive and adventurous, and should make a splendid success of its affairs if it would learn to shun reckless, hasty and vindictive speech.

East Mansfield Girl, Pavonia Man Married Friday Morning

OPEN CHURCH was observed yesterday morning when Miss Marveline M Harper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs J. E Harper, East Mansfield, became the bride of Howard K Meyer, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard K. Meyer, Pavonia, in the Pavonia Methodist church at 11 o'clock. The single ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Oscar L Ashburn and the bride was given in marriage by her father

Miss Harper wore a gown of sky blue lace with white accessories and carried an arm bouquet of white daisies. She was attended by Mrs. Waldo O. Hale, her sister, who was wearing a dress of melody pink made in the same style as the bride's. Her bouquet was of painted daisies. William Meyer, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man.

Church decorations for the ceremony included lilies, iris and peonies arranged on the altar.

Ushers were Waldo O. Hale, brother-in-law of the bride, and John Groff, cousin of the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony a reception and buffet luncheon for the immediate families was held at the home of the bride's parents. The couple left for a short wedding trip and will be at home June 6 at Pavonia.

For traveling the bride wore a white suit with Parisand accessories. Mrs Meyer is a graduate of Madison high school and Mr. Meyer, who is employed at the Westinghouse Electric Manufacturing company, is a graduate of Weller township school.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs Herman Harper and daughter, Cleveland, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Harper, Misses Florence and Clara Harper and Mrs. Vera Lutz and children, Ashland. A number of post-nuptial parties are being planned to honor the recent bride.

ANNOUNCE BETROTHAL AT EVENING AFFAIR

THE ENGAGEMENT and approaching marriage of Miss Ruth V. Murray and Wayne E. Williams was announced last night at a party given by the Misses Mary Lou Balliet, Edna May Boswell and Ida Willis at the Balliet home on South Adams street. Miss Murray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Murray, Youngstown, and Mr. Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Williams, Shelby, will be married June 18 at the Park Avenue Baptist church.

Five tables of hearts were in play during the evening and prizes were awarded to Miss Mary Vesper and Miss Emma Yarman. Decorations were carried out in a pink and white color scheme with the house being filled with garden flowers of these two shades. Refreshments were served at a long taper-lighted table.

The centerpiece was a large pink bonnet containing smaller bonnets as favors for each guest In these were concealed tiny hearts bearing the announcement of the engagement. The hostesses presented Miss Murray with an electrical gift.

The bride-elect, who makes her home at 383 Sherman place, is associated with the Prudential Insurance company here and Mr. Williams is the manager of the Majestic theater.

It is disclosed that a 62-year-old inventor still works 16 hours a day. Just one of those oddities in the news.

It is also worthy of note that the Dionne quintuplets will be in the minority when it comes to a family vote on dividing the wealth.

Reorganization Awaits Confidence.

POSTPONEMENT of action by congress on the government reorganization bill, a pet measure of President Roosevelt, does not mean that this is a settled issue.

There has long been a considerable intelligent public sentiment favorable to government reorganization in the interest of greater efficiency and economy.

The administration's reorganization bill would not have brought about worth-while economy but would have given greater and more dangerous power to the president.

Nothing that has occurred during the past five years encourages belief that President Roosevelt's powers should be increased or that congressional and judicial restraints on executive authority should be diminished.

Protest Showing of Birth Film.

PROTEST by Mansfield council, Knights of Columbus, against showing of "The Birth of a Baby" motion picture in any local amusement house is apparently in accord with thoughtful conclusions on this subject.

Purporting to be an "educational" film, with sanction of some medical authorities, it can scarcely be escaped that this picture's promotion has been largely from the standpoint of box office appeal rather than advancement of biological knowledge.

If it could be assured that such a picture would be seen only by clean-minded persons past the adolescent age, influenced by a desire to increase their knowledge of an entirely proper subject, there would be little reason for its rejection.

When it is considered, however, that the picture portrays procedure in connection with the birth of a baby, before a mixed crowd of children and adults of both sexes, with possibility of innocent young people sitting alongside a lecher, a libertine, sex pervert or giggling strumpet, it becomes a different matter.

If it later becomes apparent that there is real educational value in such a picture, and if it can then be shown before selective age and sex groups under impeccable auspices, further consideration can be given the subject.

As matters now stand it appears that Mansfield can do nicely without local public showing of this highly controversial picture and that other organizations may well adopt the attitude expressed by the Knights of Columbus.

Rules for Bicycle Riders.

MORE cities are beginning to take bicycles seriously, as a part of traffic safety activities. Increase in the use of bicycles by children, and a desire to save youthful cyclists from injury or death, are responsible for adoption and enforcement of stricter rules governing use of bicycles on streets and sidewalks.

Cleveland is the latest Ohio city to propose an ordinance along this line, with a provision to license all bicycles, probably at a 25-cent fee, as a better guard against theft and also to place greater responsibility on riders, whose bicycles may be impounded for violation of rules.

The rules in brief, as submitted to the Cleveland Safety Council by a committee of police officials, are:

BICYCLES used at night must be equipped with a headlight and a red tail light or approved reflector.
CYCLISTS must ride in single file on heavily traveled thoroughfares.
CYCLISTS must keep close to the right-hand curbs.
SIGNALS must be given by hand of intentions to change course.
PASSENGERS will not be permitted on bicycles designed to carry but one person.
CYCLISTS may not hitch or hold on moving vehicles.
TRICK riding is prohibited.
BRAKES, lights, horns and bells must be kept in good operating condition.
TRAFFIC signals and signs must be obeyed.
BICYCLES should be locked when not in use.
CARE must be exercised for the safety of pedestrians when riding on sidewalks.

The large number of bicycles in use among Mansfield school children, with apparent absence of any training in safe driving practices, encourages the idea that it might be well for the local Safety Council and city officials to start thinking along lines of having a similar ordinance in readiness for operation here by the time schools re-open in September.

Reports to Workers.

SEVERAL large industrial concerns have followed a new practice this year, making detailed financial reports to their employes as well as their stockholders. A recent example is the "humanized analysis of the year's results" presented in a publication of the Standard Oil company of Indiana. It was prepared, explains the president, "with special thought of the point of view of the employe."

In this analysis everything is given in terms of the individual worker. The total income from all sources, the pay roll, dividends to stockholders, cost of tools and machinery, and so on, are all divided by 32,000, the number of employes, and given as so much per employe.

It is an interesting effort to let the hired help know how the company is run, what its costs are, what becomes of the money it receives which does not go directly into wages, and all the rest.

Doubtless stockholders now read their reports more carefully than they did in the years before the depression, but some employes may give such documents even closer study. It is an experiment which should be beneficial to all concerned.

The University of Wisconsin has a course on how to get along with relatives—which is apparently a matter of higher education.

New York City is considering a heavy tax on horse race "bookies"—but it would probably be passed along to the consumer.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — From an examination of speeches of Senator Pat Harrison and President Roosevelt it is fairly evident they are not exceedingly far apart on tax principles, but they are a long way from harmony on what to do right now to meet the recession-depression.

Speaking before 13 high school seniors at Arthurdale, W. Va., the President said the new tax bill was designed in many respects to hit the little fellow and his little corporation about as hard as it hit the big fellow. He insisted this was not fair, and that it was an abandonment of American principle to back away from taxing people in proportion to ability to pay.

The question is, did Senator Harrison catch the President a bit off base with that one, particularly since Mr. Roosevelt sought to illustrate it with the capital gains tax?

* * *

How It Works.

UNDER the new tax bill, says the President, a little fellow sells some stocks and perhaps real estate. He makes a profit of $5,000 on the deal. That is income and he must pay 15 per cent tax under the bill. Now along comes a big fellow and sells in a big way and makes a half-million dollar killing. But, says the President, instead of taxing him a high percentage of such earnings, the new tax measure says that all he has to pay is the same as the little fellow, or 15 per cent.

Not so, says Harrison next day in the Senate. The big boy not only has to pay the 15 per cent but his half million profit reaches high into the upper bracket where the income and surtax take off big hunks.

Evidently they still agree that the bigger the income the bigger the share which should go to the government.

But when President Roosevelt in effect appealed to Congress and the American people to override the tax bill next year Harrison came right back with the suggestion that he should have liked the President to test out the issue before the present Congress.

The whole thing goes back to Senator Huey Long and his "share the wealth" clubs. In 1935 the clubs were making headway. In the fall of that year Long was assassinated. When President Roosevelt advanced the surplus profits tax bill next spring, in the 1936 election year, observers generally agreed it was intended to meet the "share the wealth" issue.

* * *

Blaming the Tax.

IN presenting the bill the President and certain treasury experts declared that corporations had hoarded over four billion dollars of earnings which should have been paid out in dividends to big and little shareholders. If it had been paid out, he said, the government would have collected almost a third of it in taxes, much needed nowadays. To shake some of it out, the 1936 tax bill proposed to tax corporations on the amount of earnings they hoarded, the bigger the savings the bigger the tax.

Right away both little and big corporations flocked to Congress to protest it was "penalizing thrift" to tax a company on money it put away for a rainy day.

Last summer, with the tax only a few months old, the recession set in and the tax got its share of blame. Senator Harrison, chairman of the finance committee which handles taxation, agreed that it was a factor harassing business. Congress supported him in striking out all of the graduated taxes on savings of little corporations and most of those on big ones although a substantial flat tax remains on both.

"We wanted to do something, if a tax factor could do it," said Harrison, "that might assist in dispelling fear . . . and restoring confidence in the mind of the American business man."

The complexion of the next Congress will determine whether Pat Harrison or the President wins on that issue.

Timely Editorial

The Common People.

Those of us who are common folks with no extraordinary streak of genius will appreciate Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick's declaration that it is we upon whom the foundation of society rests. We, he is certain, are responsible for real progress.

Dr Fosdick grants that genius is valuable and necessary, but sees that there is not enough of it to go around. The underpinning of society, he rightly says, is made up of "the small daily fidelities of the ordinary men and women."

Such folks, he believes, will save democracy, liberty, the Ten Commandments and Christian faith and life from disappearing from the world. This is just a different way of saying what Lincoln did, that God must have loved the common people for He made so many of them.—Ohio State Journal.

COMIN' 'ROUND THE MOUNTAIN

Lawmakers Eager to Return Home

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — Congress, as its 1938 session has been drawing toward a close, has been probably the most jittery legislative body in recent American history.

Our lawmakers, with renomination fights and a subsequent election dead ahead, always want to get home to attend to their political fences, but maybe never before has fence repair work seemed so important to so many of them as this year.

Republicans have not been so much worried, to be sure. A Republican who survived the Democratic sweep in 1932 inclines to think that he has a sufficiently dependable G. O. P. bailiwick to return him in 1938 regardless of nearly anything or everything. He counts on renomination as a foregone conclusion and he doesn't believe he can be beaten in November. Otherwise he would have been defeated by his Dmocratic rival two years ago.

The Democratic legislators are the ones who have chafed as their session in Washington has dragged on into their respective home campaign seasons.

* * *

DEMOCRATS SQUIRM

And it is to be considered that congress is about 75 per cent Democratic now.

Its Republican members have chuckled pleasantly over signs of Democratic impatience at the prolongation of deliberations on Capitol Hill, but the Democratic three-quarters of the Hill's senators and representatives have squirmed with anxiety at every succeeding day's delay of adjournment.

Not only have they wanted to be at home, spell-binding; they have been uncertain how to vote while here.

* * *

RENOMINATION TROUBLE

It is true that many Democrats are sure enough of being re-elected —if they can get themselves renominated.

But renominations?

There are anti-New Deal Democrats who are afraid of the nomination of pro-New Dealers. And vice versa. And an aspirant has to be nominated before he can run in November. He can be as effectively wished out of the race at his nominating primary as he can be licked by a Republican later on. Oh, yes, a beaten primary candidate can fight as an independent if he chooses, but an independent's chance is approximately one in a million.

* * *

IN G. O. P. BAILIWICKS

Moreover, plenty of Democrats by no means feel certain of re-election even if renominated.

A goodly number of Democrats got into the house of representatives in 1932, 1934 and 1936 (or stayed in from election to election) from normally Republican districts. There were some Democratic senators, too, who got in from normally Republican states in 1932—and who now are up for renomination and re-election.

They fear that their states or districts may revert to the G. O. P. next fall.

* * *

IN A G. O. P. STATE

Illustratively:

Iowa, an almost uninterruptedly Republican state for more than a generation, today has two Democratic senators.

The term of one of them (Guy M. Gillette) is just expiring. Fought by the New Deal for renomination, he has had that embarrassment. Assuming his primary victory (if he wins), he still has a normally Republican state to fight on election day.

There are more senators in the same fix — and dozens of representatives.

* * *

YEARNING FOR HOME

These politicians simply have been bursting to get back to their constituencies — to talk to them and to do no talking or voting in Washington in the meantime.

Prediction?—as to election day? There will be some anti-administration gains.

But they will not be what the anti-administrationists have hoped for. Signs do not indicate a violent resurgence.

Listen, World!

How Much Do You Wonder?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

HOW OLD ARE YOU?

That's a tremendously important question. All your power and popularity, your happiness and success, depend upon it. Never was it so important to Stay Young as today . . . never was Age so cruelly penalized. Whatever you do, wherever you go, you face that challenge—

HOW OLD ARE YOU?

No use looking in the calendar or the mirror for the answer to that question. Neither looks nor birthdays reveal your real age. Nor can you prove you're "staying young" by being the Village Cut-Up . . . rushing through beauty parlors, sports events and night spots, spreading synthetic hi-de-ho. They do that sort of thing in any simple-minded institution. The real secret of youth lies elsewhere.

It lies in the FLEXIBILITY OF YOUR MIND . . . in your ability to be curious . . . to wonder and ask questions . . . to risk and rebel.

Recently, while addressing the New York Medical Society, Dr. Foster Kennedy, noted psychologist and nerve specialist, said:

The sense of wonder is the yard-stick of the ageing of our minds and hearts. If we lose it at 20—and many do—we are senile. If we keep it at 60—and many do—we have outdone Faust."

You fear age? You long to retain the sparkling freshness of youth . . . the leaping eagerness that sings through every vein . . . the red-lipped, starry-eyed delight?

Then stop worrying about diets and beauty creams, dances and dates, and ask yourself these questions, if you dare—

HOW OFTEN DO I WONDER ABOUT LIFE . . . ABOUT MYSELF?

HOW CURIOUS AM I ABOUT PEOPLE AND CONDITIONS?

HOW OFTEN DO I REBEL AGAINST A COMFORTABLE RUT?

HOW OFTEN DO I DELIBERATELY SEEK AND FACE CRITICISM?

HOW OFTEN DO I ACCEPT THAT CRITICISM AND DARE TO MAKE CHANGES IN MYSELF . . . DARE TO RISK NEW THOUGHTS, NEW CUSTOMS?

HOW OFTEN DO I JUNK MY OLD OPINIONS AND MAKE A FRESH MENTAL START?

These are strenuous questions for anyone to face—and not one in a thousand has the courage to answer them honestly. They are like the tough "work-outs," the icy showers, the harsh rub-downs which keep an athlete in trim.

But few wish to be mental or spiritual athletes! We want "to stay young"—yes, indeed. But we forget that change and revolt, hardship, risk and adventure are the very essence of vigorous, glowing youth . . . they are the "work-outs" which keep the blood bubbling and the mind alert.

Again Dr. Kennedy says, "REGRET AND REMORSE ARE UTTERLY STERILE EMOTIONS. DO NOT TRY TO WALK LOOKING BACKWARDS."

And once more one remembers the old story of Lot and his wife, whom alone God had decided to save from a wicked people and whom He ordered to flee forthwith, without backward look, from doomed Sodom and Gomorrah. But Lot's wife was torn at the thought of her lost home: of the dear memories of girlhood and young motherhood. So turning, she gave one last, backward look —and in that moment was transformed into a pillar of salt.

So we, too, sacrifice progress for the dear but deadly sweetness of "looking back" . . . of daydreaming of yesterday, rather than leaping forward into tomorrow . . . of grieving for the past, rather than grappling with the present.

How old are you?

YOU'RE AS OLD AS YOU'RE SATISFIED . . .

YOU'RE AS YOUNG AS YOU'RE EAGER!

What's Happened?

A Week-End Summary of Current Events.

TWO NAMES—Peter Levine and James Bailey Cash, jr. —were added this spring to the long list of children stolen by American criminals and held for ransom.

The Levine Kidnaping:

Feb. 24, 1938—Peter Levine, 12, of New Rochelle, N. Y., started home from school, but never got there. He was fond of detective stories and authorities suspected his disappearance was a mere prank.

Feb. 28—Ransom was demanded from Peter's father, a lawyer, and he began trying to arrange to pay it.

March 19—The first of several arrests for attempts to "chisel in" and extort money from Peter's father was made.

March 31—Peter's father offered $25,000 for return of his son alive, $5,000 if dead.

May 29—Peter's headless body was washed ashore from Long Island sound not far from the Levine home.

June 2—G-men continued to scour the waterfront for clues.

The Cash Kidnaping:

May 28, 1938 — James Bailey Cash, jr., 5, nicknamed "Skeegie," had been put to bed and his parents were closing their store nearby, at Princeton, Fla., for the night. When they returned a screen had been slit and the back-door latch lifted—and "Skeegie" was gone.

May 30—Notes and instructions having been left, the boy's father drove along a route indicated on a map and tried in vain to get in touch with his son's captor.

May 31—Cash tried again, and dropped $10,000 in small bills when given a signal.

June 1—"Skeegie" still had not been found. "The case is exactly where it was yesterday only it is one day worse," the boy's uncle told reporters. Then the greatest manhunt even seen in Florida began. Nearly every able-bodied farmer in the vicinity took part. So did American Legionnaires, WPA crews and Boy Scouts. While they combed palmetto thickets and citrous groves, G-men questioned a man nabbed near the Cash home. And the posses found several possible clues.

June 2—"We must face the strong possibility that this little boy will be found dead," E. J. Connelly, federal agent, told the searchers. "If you see signs of freshly disturbed dirt, dig! Look well in every canal and every clump of bushes!"

Betty Jane Goes Home.

Betty Jane Hobbs, 4, found in Coolville, Ohio, was taken back to her home in North Tonawanda, N. Y., this week after 10 days' absence.

Her father said Mrs. Anna LeGare, a former tea room hostess, had met Betty Jane a few weeks previous and apparently had become attached to her. Mrs. LeGare said Betty Jane's mother had let her take the child to Ohio. But Betty's mother denied she had consented. And Mrs. LeGare was held for a grand jury at North Tonawanda.

3 Boys on a Boat?

After getting navigation books at the public library, three teenage boys were seen rowing out to sea. Then a $20,000 yacht disappeared. Putting 3 (boys) and 1 (yacht) together, Santa Cruz, Calif., investigators suspected some adventure—possibly a treasure hunt—was under way.

The U. S. Navy's Pacific fleet was ordered this week to watch for the yacht.

People

Johnstown's Mayor.

While CIO and "Little Steel" battled last summer in Johnstown, Pa., Mayor Daniel J. Shields skyrocketed to fame by organizing citizens to shield men who wanted to work. CIO dubbed his special force "vigilantes."

And this week Shields was charged with having accepted money "knowingly, fradulently and extortiously" in connection with that activity. "What I did last year," he retorted, "was one of the greatest successes of my life. . . . Fearlessly . . . I face these charges."

* * *

Deportment Dept.

CIO, the American Civil Liberties Union and other plaintiffs tried this week to persuade a federal court to stop Mayor Frank Hague's police from "deporting" visitors who try to make speeches in Jersey City, N. J.

In Washington, meanwhile, Rep. Jerry O'Connell — who departed from Jersey City without speaking last week-end—and other "liberals" talked of a congressional inquiry. "If," said Rep. Maury Maverick, "Mayor Hague can violate the liberties of the liberals, a Socialist mayor could deport a du Pont. . . ."

* * *

Gee Whiz Dept.

Georgia's New Deal Gov. E. D. Rivers is running for re-election against J. J. Mangham of Bremen, Ga. (and Hugh Howell of Atlanta). But Mangham's son, 19, is the boy friend of the governor's 17-year-old daughter.

Politics

Iowa Votes Next.

Iowa—that's where the tall corn grows—will vote Monday.

In the Democratic primary, Sen. Guy M. Gillette, 59, seeking renomination, is opposed by 35-year-old Rep. Otha Wearin. J. J. Meyers, W. G. Byerhoff and Mrs. Ellsworth Richardson.

WPA Administrator Hopkins recently put in a kind word for Wearin, and Gillette cracked back: "If the people of Iowa want a rubber stamp and nothing else, they can buy one for 50 cents. . . ."

In the Republican primary, ex-Sen. L. J. Dickinson and Rep. Lloyd Thurston are seeking the senatorial nomination. Both have been attacking the New Deal rather than each other.

Sympathizers with Hitler met in San Francisco and sympathizers with Stalin in New York this week.

The German-American Bund's principal speaker (on the west coast) declared: "Our fight is against communism. . . . Germany does not want to give the blessings of national socialism to this or any other country."

The communist party's national convention (on the east coast) announced "the issue is democracy or fascism," and adopted a new constitution declaring their party "defends the United States constitution."

In Washington, meanwhile, congressmen prepared to investigate un-American propaganda after much discussion of both fascism and communism.

QUOTES

German Propaganda Minister Goebbels: "We are 75,000,000 strong. Czechoslovakia is 12,000,000 or 13,000,000. Yet she acts as though the situation were just the reverse."

President Roosevelt: "Emergency employment . . . should come right away instead of being deterred to a time when it may synchronize with an increase in private employment."

Montana's Democratic Sen. Burton K. Wheeler: "The administration endorsement of primary candidates is creating a schism in the party which, unless it is healed, will not only affect the 1938 election, but will likewise affect the presidential election in 1940."

At Home

Memorial Day, 1938.

About 300 persons met violent death on the Memorial Day weekend this year (last year's toll was 356).

The Oakland, Calif., air show's main race was won by Earl Ortman of Los Angeles, who averaged 265.539 miles an hour. Mishaps cost two flier's lives.

The Indianapolis auto race was won by Floyd Roberts, former Sunday school teacher, who averaged 117.200 miles an hour. A wheel flew off one racing car and killed a spectator.

The New York excursion boat Mandalay sank, but the 347 persons aboard were transferred safely to the steamship Acadia which had rammed the Mandalay.

At Gettysburg, Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg warned that "those who try to trade liberty for security are likely to lose both." And at Arlington cemetery, Sen. David I. Walsh declared "force alone has become the dominating factor in determining the destinies of peoples and nations."

* * *

Florida Flogging.

Tampa, Fla., police seized three men nearly three years ago in a "communistic investigation," then released them. Later the trio was grabbed, tarred, feathered and beaten. One of them died.

Five former policemen went on trial this week for kidnaping one of those men. It was the third trial resulting from the flogging—when tried for second degree murder the defendants were acquitted by a directed verdict, and when tried previously for kidnaping they were convicted but the Supreme Court ordered a new trial.

* * *

Church Goals.

Northern Baptists, meeting this week in Milwaukee, disapproved U. S. participation in an arms race, warned against fascism, urged "Christian" labor mediation, and attacked the liquor traffic, salacious literature and gambling.

The Presbyterian-Church-in-the-U. S. A. assembly at Philadelphia, meanwhile, advocated a disarmament conference, uniform marriage and divorce laws, a "democratic" industrial regime and return of prohibition.

In Short

Indicted: General Motors, Chrysler and Ford companies and executives on anti-trust law charges at South Bend, Ind.

Acquitted: Donald Carroll, Jr., 16, of New York, who plead temporary insanity at his trial for slaying his 18-year-old sweetheart.

Shaken: About 1,000,000 Southern California homes by an earth slippage that did little damage.

Paid: $100,000 to each of four mothers who won the Toronto stork derby, and $12,500 to each of two other contestants.

Married: Harold Fowler McCormick, 66, harvester millionaire, to Adah Wilson, 34, nurse; Princess Eugenie of Greece to Prince Dominique Radziwill of Poland.

Divorced: Sam Katz, film executive, by Sani Maritza, ex-actress.

As Others See It

Cheerful Thought.

Doctors should be busy. America has one doctor to every 815 people; five people to each 100 are sick every day; so each doctor should have forty-one patients all the time.—Buffalo News.

Misplaced Affection.

Do you get angry with inanimate things?" asks a psychologist. Well, no; still, on the other hand, we've never patted an alarm clock on the head. — St. Louis Star-Times.

They Carry American Legion's Banner on Baseball Diamond

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor.

MANSFIELD'S own Bob Feller will toe the pitching mountain for the American Legion club Sunday when it lines up against the undefeated New Philadelphia entry in a Central Ohio semi-pro league tilt at the Fairground at 2:30 p. m.

He is Howard Patterson, erstwhile Ontario high school basketball star, who is making his debut in fast company this season.

Faces Big Job.

Although inexperienced, Patterson has accounted for a couple of pitching masterpieces in his two appearances this season, and he might be just what the doctor ordered to stop the ambitious New Phillies, who are tied with Newark for first place.

Young Patterson lost a heartbreaker against Columbus after permitting only three hits in seven innings by a 2 to 0 count, but came back last Sunday to halt Marion with four bingles.

A victory for the Mansfield team Sunday will enhance its first half pennant hopes materially, but there is little opportunity to advance this week unless Columbus should drop another game.

If Columbus is defeated, the Legionnaires can climb into a tie for third place.

The New Philadelphia club comes to Mansfield Sunday with a lineup made up mainly of veteran performers. The team has shown considerable power on the attack so far this year, and it will take Patterson at his best to put a halt to its winning ways.

Durant Behind Plate.

While another catcher has been signed in Fuller, a New York Yankee tryout last year, Manager Dewey Durant is expected to be behind the plate Sunday. Fuller is not expected to report until later next week.

In the other league tilts Sunday, Marion invades Newark, Columbus plays at Logan and Coshocton goes to Lancaster.

Net Matches, Diving Exhibition Top Dedication Sports Program

Outstanding Cleveland Stars To Meet In Feature Net Tilt Sunday.

TENNIS and swimming exhibitions will headline the sports program to be staged in conjunction with the dedicatory ceremonies at Liberty park Sunday.

The net matches will feature two outstanding Cleveland racquet wielders, as well as a number of prominent Mansfield performers, and the aquatic exhibition will be headlined by Eddie McVehil, of Canton McKinley, state scholastic low board diving champion.

Vic Alderson, chairman of the tennis committee, announced today that Andrew Meldrum and Clark Waid of Cleveland will meet in the feature net match

Meldrum and Waid are expected to exhibit a caliber of tennis seldom witnessed on the Mansfield courts.

The former is a protege of Mrs. Helen Bacon of Mansfield, a former ranking tennis star of Ohio, and formerly held down the N. 1 position on the Amherst college team.

Meldrum also is a former Ohio State junior champion, and at present is rated as one of the top-notch performers in Cleveland.

His opponent is a former member of the Princeton college net club and held the public parks championship of Cleveland two years. He is also a former University club champion of that city.

The net matches, which will get under way at 5 p. m., will also include singles exhibition between Naomi Grandon and Lois Baughman, two outstanding Mansfield women players, and a double setto featuring star members of the Woodland tennis club.

McVehil, Von Weider and Schadek To Perform From Boards At Liberty Park.

Bob Enos and W. E. Slabaugh will meet Thorton Moore and Warner Peterson, a new addition to the Mansfield tennis ranks, in the doubles match.

The tank exhibitions will get under way at 3:30 p. m. In addition to McVehil, the featured participants will be Russell Von Weider, superintendent of the Liberty park pool, who was a member of the 1924 Olympic team, and Tony Schadek, N. C. O. diving champion.

Von Weider and Schadek will stage a comedy diving act from the new high board.

1938 Champs Open Sked at Perrysville

Other Mansfield Teams Play on Road Sunday.

The Mohican Chevrolets, who won the city sandlot baseball championship last year, will play their delayed 1938 opener Sunday at Perrysville.

Dave Arbaugh, who did most of the pitching for the Automen last season, will be on the mound Sunday, Manager Bob Martin announced today.

With the exception of Lewis, Donnan and Willard, the lineup will be virtually the same as last year, Martin said.

* * *

The Mansfield Hi-Speeds will play a double-header at Lakeland Beach Sunday. Petey Beer and Bill Knackstedt will toe the hill for the Mansfield team The Hi-Speeds are expected to face Lefty Deeds of Mansfield, formerly with the American Legion, in one of the games.

* * *

Manager John Stoner's Rex Billiards faced the reformatory today in the opening game of the season for the inmates, and go to Carey Sunday to engage the Eagles of that city.

The Cuemen will face Lefty Parshall, Carey left handed star Sunday, while either Jones or Moore will toe the mound for the Mansfield team Fosnight or Irvine was to face the inmates today.

The Billiards are requested to report at the Rex Billiards emporium at 11:30 a m Sunday for the Carey trip.

* * *

Two out-of-town games are on schedule for the Ira D Canzois this week-end Manager Jeff Holmquist's club plays at Lucas today and goes to Bellville for a 3 p. m. game Sunday

Holmquist expected to start either Al Boyer or Karl Theaker against Lucas with Gill Weigand who hurled a one-hitter against the Shelby Settlement last Sunday, going to the mound Sunday

With their lineup strengthened by the addition of several new players, the Estes Coals will travel to Butler for a game Sunday Manager Washington has not announced his mound choice.

Meet Hayesville At League Park

The Mansfield Merchants will meet Hayesville at League park at 3 p. m. Sunday. Bill McKinley, who recently held the Ling Canzols to one hit, will toe the mound for the visitors. He has averaged 18 strike outs per game this season.

Manager Russ Remy or Pete Metz will go to the mound for the Mansfield team, with Richards behind the plate. There will be no admission charge, Manager Remy announced.

Teams Ready For Openers

City 'A' Softball Clubs Lift Lid Monday.

One of the tightest races in the history of the City Class A softball league is expected to develop Monday when the lid is lifted.

The opening games send Liberty park against Johns park on the former's field and North Park against Prospect park on the latter team's diamond.

The teams appear well balanced for the split season races to continue until late in August. A playoff between the two winners will determine the league title.

Rosters released today show that the Liberty park lineup will include Harold Aston, Ike Fetter, Joe Wentz, Mike Wentz, "Peanuts" Musille, George Bosko, "Joe" Bush and Dale McKinley.

Included in the Prospect team's roster are Dick Treisch, John Hallebrin, Ted Frisbee, Nick Webel Al Stuckler and Valentine. Johns park will place a strong team on the field that will include Jim Fullager, Harry Ross, Ray Hunt, Freddy Carver, Kenny Ross, Tommy Moxley, Bob Bride, Walter Ross, George and John Flockenzier.

The North park roster includes John Villella, George Johns, Frank Balbaugh, Ed Channel, Frank Beeber, Harold Geiger and Ed Henrich.

Woodruff to Try For 'Double' Today

NEW YORK—(AP)—John Woodruff, Pittsburgh colored star, who "runs calm and collected," is out to repeat one of the most difficult of track doubles the quarter and half miles in the I C 4-A. finals today The limber-limbed Woodruff won his 440 heat in 47.9 and his 880 trial in 1.55 8 yesterday.

No team was even close to Southern California. Cornell had nine qualifiers. Pittsburgh, the defending champion, California and Yale tied with eight each and Columbia, the runner-up in 1937, had six men in the finals.

LIBERTY SHOES WHIP KOBACKER'S TEAM, 16-6

The Liberty Shoes registered another softball victory yesterday when they walloped Kobacker's team, 16 to 6, at Maple Lake park Sellers collected a triple, double and single to lead the Shoes' attack Baker of the Shoes and Courtney of the losers hit for the circuit.

Keep Record Unmarred In Club League

Schoolmasters Turn Back Hermit Club, 10 To 1.

The defending Y. M. C. A. Club softball champions may be difficult to dislodge, it now appears.

The Schoolmasters kept their record unmarred by taking their second straight league tussle yesterday when they defeated the Hermit club, 10 to 1, at Liberty park.

Yields Six Hits.

Bob Davis yielded only six hits He and his teammates collected twice as many. However, the Schoolmasters didn't do their heavy scoring until late in the tilt

Fair and Kibler with four and three hits, respectively, paced the Schoolmasters. Kibler and Baumgardner hit home runs for the winners.

Zent's Radios added to its unmarred record yesterday when they halted the Wesco club, 14 to 6, at Empire field. The Radiomen registered eight runs in the fifth. Hinshaw, Wood, Wade and Sites collected two hits apiece for the winners.

The Catholic Foresters took the measure of the J. A. C club, 9 to 4, at Prospect park The Foresters mixed nine hits with eight walks issued by Bud Cram to score in every inning but three M Rachel limited the losers to three hits.

Pull Double Steals.

The Knights of Columbus club pulled three double steals as it trimmed Local 40, 9 to 4, at North park. Carr and Brick Moyer, whose work behind the plate was one of the features of the game, led the K. of C. attack with two hits apiece. Mehl got three of the six blows permitted by L. Hetler.

Schoolboy Rowe May Return To Tigers As Gardener If Arms Fail To Respond.

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK—(AP)—Just a year ago yesterday Max Schmeling fought his shadow in the famous "Phantom Fight" in the Long Island bowl . . . "Schoolboy" Rowe may return to the Tigers as an outfielder if the Beaumont sun fails to bake out his sore arm . . . Tony Galento is writing newspapers offering to cover the Louis-Schmeling fight without benefit of ghosts . . . Joe McCarthy will part with $40,000 to get Buck Newsom of the Brown on the Yankee payroll before June 15 . . . Jimmy Braddock's piece in the current Liberty rates at least three stars . . . Notre Dame is having its 40th winning season in 47 years of baseball.

Big Bill Lee Blanks Bees

Marks Up Fourth Shut-Out In Last Five Games.

NEW YORK—(INS)—Lessening the sting of Dizzy Dean's absence from the lineup, Big Bill Lee today is almost single-handedly pitching the Chicago Cubs to even footing with the league leading New York Giants in the National loop.

Lee yesterday hurled his fourth shutout in five game by holding the Bees to three hits, winning for the Cubs, 4 to 0. In pitching the Cubs to within a game and a half of the Giants, Lee out-pitched Lou Fette and ran his remarkable hurling record to a mark of one run in the last 46 innings.

The Giants lost their fourth straight game, going down before the Pirates, 6 to 5. The Pirates stepped into fourth place replacing the Reds who lost to the Dodgers, 5 to 4. The Cardinals took an 11-inning 8 to 7 decision from the Phillies.

The Yankees kept up the pace, two and a half games back of the Indians by trouncing the Tigers, 5 to 1. Charley Ruffing, who pitched seven-hit ball, won his seventh straight, while Joe DiMaggio came out of a batting slump with his seventh homer and a single.

Sheer Power Nets Victory For Indians

Unleash Six-Run Rally To Trim A's, 10 To 5.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The Cleveland Indians may not hold on to their American league lead, but diamond experts agreed today that no club will overpower the proteges of Oscar Vitt.

As the Tribe came here to open a three-game series with the surprising Washington Senators, they had given a convincing demonstration of long distance hitting.

Hit Ball Hard.

Cleveland won the final game of the series from the Philadelphia Athletics, yesterday, by a 10 to 5 count and it was sheer power which netted the triumph.

Johnny Allen, on the mound for the Indians, pitched only ordinary ball as he gave up 11 hits, but his mates unleashed a 15-hit attack off three Philadelphia hurlers.

Included in the Cleveland barrage of base hits were two doubles, two triples and a home run. Every man in the Indians' lineup, except Lyn Lary, secured at least one hit. The leader of the attack was Trosky, with three safeties.

Philadelphia was off to an early lead when it scored once in the third, again in the fourth and then added three in the fifth.

The Indians launched their slugging spree in the sixth with three runs, clinched the game with a six-run splurge in the eighth and added another counter in the ninth on a home run by Ken Keltner, his ninth of the campaign.

Seventh for Allen.

The victory was Allen's seventh straight. The only decision he has dropped was in his initial start of the season.

Bob Feller was slated to pitch the first game of the series here for the Indians. Kendall Chase, rookie southpaw, was to oppose him.

BUCYRUS BOARD HIRES TEACHING STAFF FOR YEAR

Physical Education Course, WPA Offer Still Being Studied By Group.

BUCYRUS — Bucyrus school board heard proposals for two new school features and approved the teaching staff for 1938-39 school year at its regular meeting Thursday night.

That a plan of physical education aside from coaching major sports be adopted in both the high school and elementary schools was suggested by Dr. W. G. Carlisle, member of the board. "There is a definite need for such a program" he said in making the recommendation.

The other proposal came from the WPA which has offered the school two services, one to provide WPA workers to take charge of the locker rooms and lavatories and the other to provide workers to serve meals for undernourished children. No action was taken on either proposal.

Principal Charles E. Davis and 65 high school and grade school teachers were re-employed and three new janitors hired. The resignation of Coach Howard Nussbaum was taken under consideration by the board.

A special meeting of the board will be held June 16 when bids will be received for the 1938-39 school coal supply.

GIRL RESERVES INSTALL

BUCYRUS — Leadership in the high school Girl Reserves went into the hands of the third member of the H. E. Kiess family Friday night when Miss Janet Kiess, youngest sister of the founder of the local organization was installed as head of the cabinet.

The organization was founded in 1926 by Miss Helen Kiess, now Mrs. James H. Kurtz of Cleveland. In 1931 Miss Florence Kiess took her place as head of the cabinet. Miss Janet received the post from Miss Rose Mary Dostal, retiring president in installation services conducted by Miss Kathryn Meck, club advisor.

HOLD HOMECOMING

BUCYRUS—Former Norton school pupils returned to the school Friday night for homecoming and picnic, the first to be held since the school was built more than 30 years ago.

Among those attending were: Ivan Crall, former Norton school principal; Supt. D. C. Baer, Mayor George Dustman, Attorney C. V. Vollrath, Attorney William Beer, jr., J. R. Neff, Ross Black and Mrs. George Ryan, all of whom attended the school with the exception of Supt. Baer and Mayor Dustman.

Mrs. W. D. Ashbaugh was chairman in charge of arrangements for the affair.

HURT IN CRASH

BUCYRUS — The condition of Lorraine Miller, 28, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Miller, Wingert street, remains serious at Epworth hospital, South Bend, where he was taken following an automobile accident in South Bend Monday. Miller suffered a skull fracture. His companion, Harry Pollack, of South Bend, suffered a fractured pelvis in the accident which threw Miller's car through the side of a tavern when it was struck by another car.

A Farmer's Diary

By Calvin A. Byers

WE HAVE BEEN planting muskmelon seed for more than a week. The work would have been completed long before, but heavy rains delayed us many times. Now a crop of ragweed begins to show—and quite a number of other kinds. In fact, as I went out this morning, and looked across the patch toward the rising sun, it had the grayish green of a dewy meadow. Somehow it hurts my pride to see a cultivated field of mine fill up with weeds before the crop is planted.

I have been concerned for fear some friends or near neighbors might drop in and see the sturdy growth that fills my garden. But I cannot keep it out of sight, because it lays in plainer view than any field I have.

I plant the seeds in hills about six feet apart each way, hoe the top soil a little higher than the surface, throw on a handful of 4-12-6 fertilizer and mix it thoroughly, then drop on eight or ten seeds and cover about one inch.

Two days ago I went out to investigate how well the earliest planted seeds had sprouted. To my amazement I found only a few left, —some hills had none at all. I looked more carefully at other mounds and found several small holes on top and empty shells of seeds, like chaff, scattered about. Some footprints almost as faint as finger marks identified the short-tailed mouse as the marauder.

To replant I mixed the seed in a rank poison solution, believing this would end my trouble,—but it didn't. The next morning the hills were scattered on the ground, and even the trace of the poison was visible,—a greenish white. I have sent a letter to the State Agricultural Experiment station at Wooster, hoping I may get a satisfactory reply before every single seed is eaten.

My dream of autumn, with luscious ripened honey rocks loosening from the stem in the sun—the fragrance of the golden greenish treasure, the mellow dripping sweetness of each slice extending to the very rind—all this is gone. I will plant another crop if this attempt has failed.

YOUNG MEN'S CLUB MEETS IN NEW QUARTERS AT CRESTLINE

CRESTLINE—The Young Men's club held its first meeting in the new hall Thursday evening. Clarence Speelman, president, presided. The club has leased the Weaver hall on Seltzer street for a club room and members did the work of redecorating it. Floors were refinished, walls painted and cleaned, a pool table and ping pong as well as other games and a radio installed.

The main topic of the evening was arrangements for the hall, a different committee to be in charge each week. The recreation committee was in charge this week.

Routine business was conducted and one new member was admitted to the club.

Announcement was made of the soft ball game between the club's team and the Frigidaire team to be played Monday evening at Kelly park. Devotionals were led by Speelman, assisted by Russell Babcock, and group singing closed the meeting.

Miss Ida Voegele, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Voegele, south of town, will receive her B. S. degree in education at the annual commencement of Wittenberg college, Monday, June 6. Miss Voegele majored in home economics and her minors were physical education and English. She is a member of Chi Omega sorority and the Y. W. C. A.

She was on the debate team two years, played in the college orchestra two years, and was a member of the Swan and Orchesus clubs two years. She was a member of the Home Economics club throughout her college course and secretary for one year, and she has also been affiliated with the Shifters, a secret organization.

Mr. and Mrs. Voegele, their daughter, Mrs. Clarence Craley of St. James and Robert Beck of Elyria expect to go to Springfield Monday for the graduation exercises and they will be joined there by Rev. and Mrs. David Kinsler of Parkersburg, W. Va.

M. Y. club members and one guest, Mrs. May Mann, were welcomed by Mrs. W. C. Marquart Thursday evening at her home on North Thoman street. Mrs. Frank Smith and Mrs. A. D. Miller were awarded first and second prizes in bridge and Mrs. Mann was given a guest gift. Mrs. R. P. Sagar will be the club's next hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Beck and children and Mrs. Nellie Rhorer of North Columbus street left today for two weeks' vacation, going to Yellowstone National park, through the Bad Lands of North Dakota and the Black Hills of South Dakota.

Rev. Charles H. Lange led the devotionals for the meeting of the Trinity Lutheran Aid society Thursday at the church. In the absence of the president, the vice president, Mrs. Earl Fisher, presided. Plans were made to hold a potluck dinner at the church next Tuesday, when ladies of the church will gather to clean the church.

PLAN CONCERTS

LOUDONVILLE—The Loudonville Chamber of Commerce has completed arrangements with W. J. Yeager, director of the high school band, for furnishing band concerts on Saturday evenings during June and July. The band will play at the intersection of Main and Water streets.

HOLD COURT MONDAY

SHELBY — A special Shelby Scout District court of honor will be held in Plymouth at 8 p. m. Monday. Boy Scouts in Troop 1 and 3 of Shelby and Troop 1 of Plymouth will receive advancement and merit badge awards.

BUCYRUS COUPLE MARRY TODAY AT TRINITY CATHOLIC CHURCH

BUCYRUS—In the first Bucyrus church wedding this month, Miss Elizabeth Carmean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Carmean, Marion road, became the bride of Mr. Roger Frerika, of Toledo, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Frerika, of this city, at 8 a. m. today.

The single ring service was performed at Holy Trinity Catholic church in a nuptial mass read by the Rev. Fr. Leo Reinartz. The bride was attended by the sister of the bridegroom, Miss Donna Belle Frerika and Mr. Frerika had as his best man, Mr. Paul Reinbold of Toledo. Little Miss Alice Ross acted as flower girl and ushers were Fred Carmean, cousin of the bride and Mr. Arthur Gallagher, both of Bucyrus.

Preceeding the ceremony Miss Christine Honeck of Malinta, O., sang three selections accompanied at the organ by Mr. Paul Lea.

The bride wore white marquisette made entrain and a floor length veil, fashioned with a tiara of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of Colonial design of Johanna Hill roses and white sweet peas.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served to 50 guests at the King's Daughters chapter house. Garden flowers were used in the decorations.

Mr. and Mrs. Frerika left at noon on a motor trip in the east and through Canada and upon their return will be at home at 1456 Wilburn avenue, Toledo, where Mr. Frerika is associated with the DuPont company as chemist.

Several hundred visitors are expected to arrive in the city this afternoon to attend the two day district convention of the Veterans of Foreign wars and its auxiliary.

The convention will get underway tonight with an opening ball at the Dumit studio. A parade Sunday afternoon will be a feature.

Auxiliary sessions will be held in the K. of P. hall, Sunday and at that time delegates to the state encampment at Canton, June 21-25 will be elected. Veterans will elect district commanders.

Mrs. Donald Keller, department president of Canton and former Bucyrus resident, will be among the state officers present. Mrs. Margaret Morgan, district president of Toledo will also attend.

GIRLS WINNERS OF HIGH HONORS AT GALION HIGH

Scholastic Awards Presented At Commencement Exercises At School Friday.

GALION — Highest scholastic honors of the 1938 graduating class of Galion High school were taken by a girl, Miriam Schreck. Two girls, Ruth Kinnamon and Maxine Crissinger, tied for second place, and Fred Staub placed third. Out of a possible 128 points, Miss Schreck had 126 to her credit. The two girls that tied for second place made 124 points, and Fred Stuab received 121 points.

Honors were awarded by the high school principal, W. L. Swick, at the annual commencement exercises held Friday night in the Senior high school auditorium.

In addition to receiving first honors, Miss Schreck also edited the senior year book, The Spy, and was president of the Girl Reserves during the past year.

Get Honorable Mention.

Those who received honorable mention were: Ruth Fortney, Avalon Scarborough, Elizabeth Rensch, Richard Shifley and Kathleen Schwartz and Coralind Davis made 123 points for her three years at the school.

Students who had received all A's in one or more subjects during the past year were: Maxine Crissinger, Pauline Bloch, Coralind Davis, William Dunning, Melvin Enders, Ruth Fortney, Robert Hocker, James Ireland, Ruth Kinnamon, Robert McCartney, Jean Nungesser and Elizabeth Rensch, Miriam Schreck, Richard Shifley and Fred Staub.

Ninety-one students received diplomas which were presented by Dr. P. A. Murr, president of the board of education. One extra diploma was awarded to Alma Cunningham who on account of a physical misfortune which she suffered practically all of her life, had completed her high school work at her home. She had attended high school for three years, making the trip to and from school in a taxi, and her education prior to high school had been taught to her by her mother.

This year's commencement exercises were outstanding inasmuch as short talks were given by five seniors who had been chosen by a special committee to represent the class. Those who took part were Avalon Scarborough, Howard L. Ricker, Phyllis Joen Hornstein, Maxine Camplin and Fred Staub. In the talks by Avalon Scarborough and Phyllis Hornstein, they paid tribute to D. E. Shaffer and Grace Weston, retiring high school teachers.

The commencement address, "Privileges and Responsibilities" was delivered by Dr. C. L. Anspach, president of Ashland college.

OFF FOR COAST

GALION—Glenn Stevens and J. E. Garverick left Thursday for Los Angeles, Calif., where they will attend the graduation of Mr. Stevens' daughter, Mary Stevens Owens from the Los Angeles Medical school on June 12. They also plan to attend the Kiwanis International convention at San Francisco, June 26 to 30.

ACCEPT BID

SHELBY—City officials yesterday accepted a bid of $1039 submitted by the Laubie Motor company for the purchase of a new truck for the street department. The bid was the lowest of five submitted by Shelby dealers. The next lowest submitted by the W. C. Gump agency was $22.70 higher than the bid accepted.

GETS DEGREE

SHELBY—Principal L. D. Reynolds of Central grade school will receive his Bachelor of Science in Education degree June 9 at the annual commencement exercises at Ashland college. Principal Reynolds came to teach in the Shelby schools in 1925. He also served as teacher in the Richland county schools for a number of years.

Jeromesville

ENTERTAINS CLASS

Miss Golden Lutz entertained the graduating class Thursday evening at her home, honoring one of the members, Mrs. Beulah Kopp Martin, who after commencement announced her marriage which took place in April.

The evening was spent in a social way and a linen shower was presented Mrs. Martin.

GROUP MEETS

The Home Guards of the Methodist church were entertained at the home of Forrest Devault. Ten members, six mothers and two visitors were present.

The program was as follows: Readings, Dorothy Clark, Wanda Kolp, Betty Ann Mendenhall; piano solo, Betty Geiger; trumpet solo, Forrest Devault; dialogue by several members, and piano solo by Martha Kyler.

BRIEFS

Mr. and Mrs. William Kyler have rented the C. S. Mills home and will reside there this summer following Mr. Kyler's graduation from Ohio Northern university.

* * *

Miss Helen Jean Reese entered Gates Memorial hospital at Elyria on Monday where she will undergo an operation on both ankles.

FUNERAL SET

BUCYRUS — Funeral services for Mrs. Lydia Matilda Diebler, 77, who died at her home Thursday night, will be held Monday at 2 p. m. at the Wise funeral home. The services will be conducted by the Rev. A. K. Beisheim. Burial will be made in Oakwood cemetery.

SENATE PASSES RECOVERY BILL

Measure Gives Roosevelt Free Hand In Spending To Curb Business Recession.

in the house, but only a formality remains before it goes to conference. Sen. Alva B. Adams, D., Colo., its floor manager, had the senate conferees appointed before last night's adournment. In addition to himself, Sens. Kenneth McKellar, D., Tenn., James F. Byrnes, D., S. C., Frederick Hale, R., Me., and John G. Townsend, r., R., Del., were appointed.

The recovery bill started out from the house appropriations committee, aggregating $3,054,425,000. The house added $100,000,000 for the rural electrification administration. The senaate appropriations committee raised the total to $3,247,025,000, chiefly by adding $212,000,000 for parity price payments to farmers. Before the senate finally settled on its still larger total it added a $300,000,000 housing authorization.

The final day's debate was featured by three major tests.

The first came when Sen. Royal S. Copeland, D., N. Y., attempted to earmark $324,235,900 of public works funds for flood control, and rivers and harbors projects in all 48 states. It was rejected 43 to 29.

The second was on the official Republican relief plan, sponsored by Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, R., Mich., for turning administration over to the states, and requiring them to put up 25 cents of every dollar spent.

Vandenberg would have increased the WPA fund to $2,410,000,000. He had discussed the plan so thoroughly in previous speeches that when the actual consideration time arrived he offered it without debate. On a roll call it was rejected, 51 to 21.

The third was a dual test on an issue which provoked the bitterest debate of the entire bill—alleged interference of WPA officials in politics.

FAVORS BILL

Bulkley Votes For Recovery Measure; Donahue Didn't Vote.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Sen. Robert J. Bulkley of Ohio voted for passage of the president's recovery bill in the senate last night. Sen. Donahey was not listed as voting.

West Virginia senators, M. N. Neeley and Rush D. Holt voted "yes" on the bill.

DistricT BREVITIES

ASHLAND—A total of $11,000 has been collected in real estate taxes for the last half of the 1937 settlement, according to an announcement made by H. O. Faber, county treasurer.

BUCYRUS—Clair Loverich, Bucyrus pleaded guilty to a charge of reckless driving and was fined $5 and costs Friday in the court of Mayor George Dustman. Loverich was arrested for crashing a red light on Sandusky avenue, Thursday night.

ASHLAND — Action to obtain partition of 72.11 acres in Perry township has been started in common pleas court here by William Gault and Celia Hare against Elsworth Gault and others.

GALION—Mrs. G. S. Reed of 618 North Columbus street has returned home from Grant hospital, Columbus, where she underwent a goitre operation a week ago.

ASHLAND—A suit to obtain the recovery of $420.00 has been filed in common pleas court here by W. F. Arnholt against Floyd O. Arnholt and Nellie Arnholt. The action was brought on a promissory note.

GALION — Clayton Stevenson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Stevenson is a member of the graduating class of Ohio Northern university. He is president of the Northern university Pharmaceutical association.

OH-YES, I'VE HEARD OF DOCTOR DAWN — HE'S VERY FAMOUS! —AND HE THINKS HE MAY BE ABLE TO CURE GORDON, HEY?
AND LATER THE COLONEL--
OH, WONT IT BE WONDERFUL IF DAVID CAN WALK AGAIN — AS HE USED TO — — HE WAS ALWAYS SO ACTIVE, YOU KNOW!
NOW, THAT'S ODD — THAT'S VERY ODD! SHE SEEMS ALL WRAPPED UP IN GORDON AGAIN AND CHEERFUL ABOUT IT! — HUM WONDER WHAT HAPPENED TO THE OTHER GIRL — THE NURSE?
AND AT THE HOSPITAL, THROUGH HIS FITFUL, PAIN-RACKED DROWSING, PAM'S CHEERY SMILE HAUNTS DAVID'S DREAMS
I'M AFRAID THAT GORDON CASE ISN'T GOING SO WELL! DOCTOR DAWN SEEMED VERY DISAPPOINTED THIS MORNING — WORRIED!
TOO BAD! THAT GORDON FELLOW HAS HAD TO SUFFER SO MUCH, TOO!

Sheriff Looks at Footprint Brings In His Man.

OKLAHOMA CITY—(AP)—When A. J. Beddo, Garvin county sheriff, arrived to investigate the theft of three cows, he took one look in the pasture and said: "There's only one man in the county with feet as big as that."

So he went to the home of a man who wears size 11½ shoes and the man confessed.

15-Year-Old Boy Attains Fame as Fashion Designer

NEW YORK—(INS)—Philip Hevenor, 15, second year high school student at Fall Church, Va., now here to attend a showing of his newest designs, claims he is America's young fashion designer.

Philip is well informed on the subject of fashion and discussed American and foreign designers with ease and fluency. Adrain is his favorite American designer.

"I started when I was nine," he said, "and I've been at it ever since. I wasn't what you'd call an 'accepted' designer until a short time ago when a shop bought some of my sketches."

The youthful designer said he only "does" evening dresses because he can't sketch legs. "I always make them look like fence posts," he laughed.

ENCOURAGED BY REPORTS FROM TRADE SOURCES

Analysts Find Contraction Of Inventories Rapidly Becoming General.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Stocks pointed toward a quiet rally in today's early market dealings.

Gains of fractions were registered for U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Anaconda, Douglas Aircraft, du-Pont, General Electric, Homestake Mining, Dome and McIntyre Porcupine.

Interesting to market analysts were reports from trade sources that contraction of inventories is rapidly becoming general and is assuming substantial proportions.

Some observers though that if the rate of decline in department store goods during the first five months of this year should continue until fall, inventories would be down near the depression low level.

Zalinsky was captured here late Wednesday by Bates and three detectives at the home where he was staying on Sycamore street after the expensive automobile he was driving was spotted by Lieut. Bruce Friday.

The car which bore Indiana license plates was seen near the school during the time of the robbery.

HIRED AT LUCAS

Scioto County Man Succeeds Handley As School Head.

Leland Gilliland, a superintendent with a record of 16 years at one school in Scioto county, had been employed today to head the Lucas schools, succeeding C. W. Handley, who was superintendent at Lucas for 16 years.

The Monroe township board of education gave Gilliland a one-year contract after considering nearly 50 applications during the past several weeks. Handley was not an applicant for re-appointment.

Gilliland has headed the Minford schools in Scioto county, near Portsmouth, since 1922. The Monroe board at the same time employed teachers for the 1938-39 term. They are:

Glenn Mowers, Miss Mary Tucker, Miss Margaret Bird, Miss Margaret DeWitt, Miss Vangeline Cook, Miss Mamie Duncan, Miss Luella Long, and Gilbert Weikert. W. S. Barger, vocation instructor, continues under his present contract.

planes from Columbus will fly over the park while the ceremonies are in progress.

An outstanding athlete at Mansfield high school and later a football star at Ohio State university, Fisch was killed last summer in a plane crash at Randolph Field, Texas. The memorial to him—a boulder with a bronze tablet—was erected with funds contributed by his Mansfield friends. The dedication ceremonies will be conducted by Rev. R. C. Goebel, pastor of St. Peter's Catholic church, at 2:30 p. m.

Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston, president of the Chamber of Commerce, will give a dedicatory talk at 7:30 p. m. and at 8 p. m. the ceremonies will close with the lowering of a huge flag which will be presented to the Liberty Park association by the Daughters of Union Veterans.

3 Bands To Play.

During the afternoon, concerts will be played by the Mansfield Senior high school band, the Madison high school band and the Prospect park band. The concerts are set for 1:15, 4 and 7 p. m.

Other highlights of the program will be the presentation of a flag pole to the park by the Earl McVey post, American Legion, at 2 p. m., a diving exhibition in the park's new swimming pool at 3:30 p. m. and tennis matches at 5 p. m.

Under the supervision of Russell Von Weider, park swimming pool superintendent and instructor, the diving show will feature Eddie McVehil, of Canton, state diving champion; Tony Schadek, Mansfield, former Northcentral Ohio champion, and Von Weider himself, who at one time was a member of the Olympic team.

Andrew Meldrun, Cleveland, former Amherst college tennis champion, will be seen in action in the court matches with a number of Mansfield stars. They will include W. C. Slabaugh, Bob Enos, Miss Janie Kuhn, Miss Lois Baughman, Thornton Moore and Warner Peterson. The matches were arranged by Vic Alderson.

James Brownscombe will be master of ceremonies for the Sunday afternoon program, and the dedication activities are in charge of James F. Carrigan, former Mansfield service-safety director.

TAKES OWN LIFE

Jefferson Township Farmer Found Hanging In Barn.

BELLVILLE—A verdict of suicide was returned by Coroner Hugh Winbigler in the death of Frederick Sheckler, 49, Jefferson township farmer, whose body was found Friday, hanging from a rafter in a barn near his home.

No reason was given for Mr. Sheckler's act by members of his family. He had lived in Jefferson township for the past 30 years.

He is survived by his wife, Nora, and a daughter, Josephine. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Monday at the family home with Rev. Joseph O'Morrow, pastor of the Lutheran church, officiating. Burial will be in the Bellville cemetery.

next week at four banks, The Farmers, Richland Trust, Citizens National and Mansfield Savings; and at each of the agencies represented in the Community Fund.

"This is the first year that we have provided an opportunity for all of those persons who do not give to the Fund because of objecting to some one agency in it, to give directly to the agency they prefer and are interested in," Beer said today. "A person interested in one particular agency may now go to its headquarters this week and make a personal contribution under the emergency campaign plan."

Contributions for the Girl Scouts and the Y. W. C. A. can be made at the latter's headquarters, 26 South Mulberry street, while gifts to the Milk Fund may be made at the Y. M. C. A., 43 Park avenue west.

The other agencies and their locations are Visiting Nurses, third floor of City building; Friendly House, 268 North Main street; Boy Scouts, basement of Elks home, 54 North Mulberry street; Salvation Army, 47 South Main; and General hospital, Glessner avenue. The remaining fund, for Memorial day is a small one, less than $200 and is already provided for.

Contributions to the emergency fund may also be made at the Community Fund office, second floor of the Bird building and the Ohio Public Service company, South Park street.

Mansfield's budget this year was pared down more than $4,000 under last year's contributions, and only $47,868 have been raised to date, leaving a deficit of almost $6,000.

YOUTH HONORED

Not That It Matters

Camp Rapidan's One Of Nation's Scenic Spots, Paradise For Fishermen

—By JANE WILLIAMS

TOOK ADVANTAGE of the holiday week-end to go sight seeing among the laurel and honeysuckle of the Blue Ridge mountains. Drove 1,078 miles in three days and a half with a full day out at Camp Rapidan, in Shenandoah National park.

Camp Rapidan is one of the most scenic spots in America and something to remember on glaring, hot days when the pavements are just right for egg-frying. The camp site, several hundred acres, I suppose, was first purchased by President Hoover (with his own funds) who had foot paths laid and 13 "cabins" built. When he retired from public life he gave the entire camp to the government for the use of future presidents—knowing better than any one else in the world that they'd need some place away from the thundering herd.

* * *

EACH cabin — two bed rooms, bath, living room and kitchen with Westinghouse ranges, refrigerators and hot water heaters—is lost in a wilderness of mountain laurel, whispering trees and mountain peaks on all sides. The camp itself is high on a mountain, only a few miles off the Skyline drive, and so located that by guarding the one road, it is well nigh a stronghold. No one can go through it except on a pass from the department of the interior or—as we did—on a pass from the marine officer in charge. Five marines are on guard all of the time.

The Rapidan river, the littlest, roughest and noisiest in the world, winds through the camp. It is narrow enough to jump across in many places, with rushing, dancing cataracts and rocks wrapped in green velvet moss. Bending low over its cool, green pools and white rushing cataracts are laurel bushes, heavy with pink blossoms.

* * *

I SNICKERED at the stories of fishing de luxe. Hoover fished because he liked to whether he caught anything or not, but the fishermen who go there now—the vice president, the Roosevelt sons and the cabinet members — want results in a hurry. Any fisherman knows you can't hurry a mountain trout unless he's awfully hungry. So they bring 'em in alive, and hungry, and dump 'em in the pools of the river by the truck load just before a de luxe fisherman comes to camp.

James Roosevelt was to come up the other day and sure enough a big truck from the hatchery came lumbering up the mountain road, filled with hungry little fishes—thousands of 'em. The drivers waited to dump the fish until word came that the president's son was on his way up. But at the last minute he couldn't get away from business, so the truckmen took their little fishes and went home.

JUST at dusk on the evening before Memorial day, we drove to the national cemetery in Culpeper, Va., and in spite of a drizzling rain, I walked between the "row on row" of low white marble markers, each bearing the name of a Union soldier and his state. On one side the drive there were about a thousand markers with names, and on the other side were more than a thousand small blocks of marble, bearing only a number, and under every number was buried a boy who marched away to war one day and never came back. And he was buried without being identified, so that his parents never knew what happened to him; probably went through life thinking that maybe he would come home some day.

Long, neat rows of flat green graves, marked by marble names and some by marble numbers. The battle of Cedar Mountain must have been marked with decided losses for the Union army. But that was 75 years ago; the boys who lie there are all but forgotten and the cause for which they fought is something in a history book; there have been many battles since and there will be many more. And the "row on row" of white markers will grow and grow all over the world. And women will come at dusk to walk between the rows and to weep and wonder fiercely why the hell nations can't settle their disputes without killing off millions of boys and men.

It is little wonder that the soil of the south is blood red.

* * *

IF YOU drive to Gallipolis this summer, take the little road that winds up over the hills to the cemetery. We went there last Saturday morning at 6 o'clock to find a certain grave. And when we found it, we also found the loveliest spot in all Ohio. The hill is high, the valley far below and very green. Between the fields of West Virginia and the hills of Ohio, the wide river winds for miles in both directions, and a funny little ferry boat flips a spray of water with its back wheel. It's like an old masterpiece done in rich tones of green and blue.

And the grave at which we stood was unmarked, except for a small cemetery marker which bore a scrawled name:

"O. O. McIntyre."

Japs Defy U.S. Protest, Bomb Canton Again

CASUALTIES TO HIT HIGH MARK, SHANGHAI HEARS

30 Warplanes Swoop Down On Congested Areas Despite Warnings From Powers.

(By United Press)

SHANGHAI — Despite United States and British government protests against attacks on civilian populations, Japanese airplanes bombed Canton again today and first reports said that casualties were expected to rank with those of last week's terrible raids.

Thirty planes flew over the city, a United Press Canton dispatch said, and dropped about 75 bombs in congested areas. Some bombs struck in the neighborhood of government buildings and the power station.

Japanese predicted a battle of great magnitude between the Chinese army massed in the Kaifeng area of the East-West Lunghai railroad and the Japanese columns moving on Kaifeng.

Military spokesmen said that the Chinese seemed determined to fight to save the railroad and the North-South Peiping-Hankow railroad.

Advance Predicted.

A rapid Japanese advance to the outskirts of Kaifeng was predicted after Japanese reconnaissance aviators reported that Chinese artillery was being evacuated by train from Hsinglungtsi, 10 miles west of Kaifeng.

Chinese reported that Japanese troops were beginning to push westward from Mengcheng and Hofei and were believed headed direct toward the Peiping-Hankow railroad which has a junction with the Lunghai railroad at Chengchow, 65 miles west of Kaifeng.

It was added that the Chinese were sending reinforcements to all threatened points and that the Chinese were doing well in early skirmishes.

Up and Down THE STREET

Add to Oddities: Dave Ireland, one of the closer observers, vouches for these believe-it-or nots. The other day he saw a sparrow make flying attacks on a frightened mouse as the latter scampered across Mulberry street, the bird in determined pursuit. And this morning while driving at the west side of the city near the city limits, he saw a kitten running itself ragged after a small wild rabbit. Don't take our word—ask him.

* * *

It was just 79 years ago tomorrow that the Richland county area suffered with the rest of Ohio in the worst killing frost on record, H. F. Guthrie, of near Perrysville, recalled today. "Wheat and fruit crops were virtually all killed, along with garden vegetables and corn," Guthrie said. Some farmers, he pointed out, replanted their cor nand gardens after that date and reaped satisfactory harvests, due to the late growing season that year.

* * *

Whenever Mansfielders walk into the Mansfield Savings Trust National bank and see an unusually beautiful arrangement of flowers, they know that some member of the bank staff is having a birthday, and that the flowers are a gift from fellow workers. Today is the 70th birthday of Frank Marquis, vice president and trust officer of the organization, and true to tradition, there was a huge basket of salmon gladiola and other summer flowers on the desk today. Mr. Marquis has been with the bank since 1887.

One of the members of the 1938 graduating class will get a kick of his football in years to come, literally speaking. As a novel way of saving the autographs of his Mansfield high school classmates, he took the deflated pigskin to school to have it signed. A coat of shellack will be applied to the ball to protect the signatures.

U. S. WATCHES BITTER SENATE RACE BATTLE

Support For Wearin Indicated By President's Son Who Calls Him 'My Friend.'

(By United Press)

DES MOINES, Ia.—The Iowa Democratic primary race developed today into a bitter fight, the outcome of which will determine President Roosevelt's prestige and strength throughout the rich agricultural section.

The test will be made Monday when Iowa voters, Republican and Democratic, choose their candidates for the November elections. The contest in the Democratic ranks for the United States senatorial nomination overshadowed all other issues.

On one side was Rep. Otha D. Wearin, 35, a former farmer, who has received endorsement of Harry L. Hopkins, works progress administrator and an indirect acknowledgement of support from James Roosevelt, the president's son. Wearin's opponent is Sen. Guy M. Gillette, backed by the state house machine of Sen. Clyde Herring and Gov. Nelson G. Kreschel.

Opposed Court Bill.

Gillette lost favor with the administration, apparently because he opposed the president's supreme court bill. The measure didn't get to the house of representatives but Wearin publicly declared himself in favor of it.

Otherwise their records are about equal as far as New Deal loyalty is concerned.

Two weeks ago the campaign was creating only a mild stir, even in Iowa. Then came Hopkins' endorsement of Wearin and the contest was plunged into national prominence.

Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, D., Montana, accused Hopkins of using his position to intimidate Iowa WPA workers into voting for a "friend" of the administration.

Young Roosevelt yesterday added, by unmistakable inference, his endorsement of Wearin's candidacy.

In a telegram to Ed G. Dunn, United States district attorney at Mason City, he referred to Wearin as "my friend" and authorized Dunn to use the phrase.

There are three other candidates for the Democratic nomination—Mrs. Ellsworth Richardson, prominent in women's activities of the Iowa farm bureau federation; Joseph J. Meyers, Carroll attorney, and W. G. Beyerhoff, Fort Dodge attorney.

If none of the candidates obtains 35 per cent of the votes, the nomination will be made in state convention.

SEE U. S. OFFER PLAN FOR PEACE

Capital Observers Believe Roosevelt Will Present Proposal Soon.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt may, within the next few weeks, unfold to the world a bold plan to restore and maintain peace through international agreement between world powers.

That the United States is on the verge of taking the lead in a move to halt the forces of agression, diplomatic observers said here today, was strongly indicated by Secretary of State Hull in his speech at Nashville, Tenn., last night in which he flayed "hermit-like isolationists" and called for re-establishment of "an unshakeable regime of order under law" in the world.

In concrete terms Hull did not state how a return to world-wide observance of international law and pacific settlement of disputes between nations may be achieved immediately, nor did he allude directly to the possibility of a new world peace conference.

But, at a time when Europe, for three weeks, has seen the tensest crisis in many years over the German-Czech controversy, Hull enunciated a specific four-point peace program in which he said the United States is "prepared to join with other nations."

"There are," he said, "important and concrete steps which can and should be taken without delay to reverse the present disastrous trends in international relations."

SCHOOL DEBT TO BE HIKED—GET AUTHORITY TO BORROW $100,000

Mansfield and Richland county schools had received $50,000 from the state today to retire a part of their debts and were authorized to borrow $100,000 more in anticipation of future allocations of state foundation funds.

The cash distributions, amounting to $25,748 for the county's rural schools and $22,661 for Mansfield schools, will retire half of the notes authorized March 1.

Rural schools were authorized to borrow up to $50,924 and the city schools, $45,020. Notes approved today must be retired before June 1, 1939.

The Mansfield board of education and most of the county's rural boards were expected to make immediate use of their authority to borrow so as to obtain funds to pay bills left over from the current school term.

Cash allocations to the county's rural schools included:

Madison township, $3,733; Lexington, $3,422; Butler $3,076; Bellville, $2,970; Springfield township, $2,557; Union rural, $2,219; Cass village, $1,972; Plymouth village $1,668; Monroe township, $1,502; Butler rural, $1,257; Mifflin township, $527; Bloominggrove township, $456; Washington township, $383.

The state's total school debt was boosted to $16,413,000 by the note authorization which amounted to $10,983,532, Dr. David Sutton, schools finance director said.

Sutton added that the notes would permit most schools to operate normally for the time being, but that he would ask Gov. Martin L. Davey to call for additional school funds when the legislature convenes in special session in November.

BABY MURDERED

Child, 4, Found Battered In Crib; Father Hunted.

NEW YORK—(INS)—Police today sought a Staten Island father for questioning, following the discovery of the battered body of his four-year-old daughter in her crib.

The child, Delores Swincoe, had been beaten to death with a strap and tossed into the kitchen sink with the water turned on, according to assistant Medical Examiner Jacobi, who announced the girl had been murdered.

Delores was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Swincoe, who occupy an isolated shack in a heavily wooded section of Staten Island.

The mother told police that she found the child's body when she returned home last night and encountered her husband leaving the house.

Insurgents Set Fire To Ship In Harbor Raid.

MADRID — (INS) — Only a few days after Britain renewed protests against attacks on her shipping, the British steamer Maryad was set afire in Alicante harbor today by insurgent aerial bombs.

In the last protest, Britain warned that "drastic measures" would be taken if Generalissimo Francisco Franco's airplanes continued to bomb British cargo vessels. Franco promised preventive measures.

Within the last fortnight three British ships have been destroyed in Valencia port.

Car Misses Fire, Mechanic Finds Dynamite Charge

CHICAGO—(AP)—An under-the-hood inspection probably will be a routine task for Oscar Strauss every time he uses his automobile henceforth.

After five minutes of driving yesterday he pulled up at a garage and complained that the motor was missing fire.

A mechanic lifted the hood, blanched, and switched off the ignition.

Taped to the steering column were six sticks of dynamite. Two wires ran from a deonator on the sticks to two spark plugs. But there was no ground wire to complete electrical connection. That, said police, undoubtedly saved Strauss' life.

Strauss, known to police as "Little Germany," said he had no enemies.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Mr. Man-Mountain Dean Turns From Wrestling To Seat In Legislature

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—With the campaign slogan, "I may look nuts and act nuts, but I don't think nuts," Mr. Man-Mountain Dean is seeking a career in statesmanship as a candidate for the lower house of the Georgia legislature for Gwinnett county

To his many admirers it will not be necessary to recall that Mr. Dean was the wrestler with whiskers and the bulbous abdomen which looked and made squashy sounds as of a gigantic hot-water bag, who used to engage in desperate wrestling contests with assorted Russian lions, German barons and Masked Marvels in the large centers and, later, on the Leaky Roof circuit. His contests with the Masked Marvel were his best.

Mr. Dean, large and of forbidding mien with his tangled foliage, which gave him the appearance of a burst horsehair sofa, would attack the Masked Marvel with a great show of savagery. The Masked Marvel usually was smaller by several inches and perhaps 50 pounds and would suffer deep indignities at the hands of the Man Mountain for perhaps 15 minutes.

* * *

Mr. Dean would clout him on the neck with vicious blows of his clenched fists, throw him over the ropes into the spectators' laps, twist his ears, sit on him and jounce and even insert his thumbs in the eyesholes of the littleman's mask.

This would enrage some of the customers, and there would be loud cries of "Boo!" "Foul!" and the more chivalrous among them would threaten to leave their seats and avenge injustice by hand. Always some of them would resolve to wait outside the actors' entrance and gang the Man-Mountain if he should win. But the scenario obviated that.

For, after the first phase of the struggle, the Masked Marvel, made desperate by outrageous impositions, would haul off and fetch Mr. Dean a swift kick right in his large and undulating middle and flee in terror of his wrath to a corner of the ropes

Mr. Dean, with a wild whinny of rage, would take after him, and the Masked Marvel would seize the top rope, swing both feet off the floor and kick the Man-Mountain flush in the whiskers Mr. Dean would reel back, dazed and baffled, shake his head and come in again, roaring fearsomely, just in time to catch another kick of both feet in his evil countenance.

Sometimes it took three such kicks, sometimes as many as four, to send the Mountain crashing backward to the floor, where he would lie, moist and heaving and emitting watery roars, like a beached whale

Few, if any, of the spectators could have known that behind the rather awful exterior of Man-Mountain Dean there beat the heart of a simple American patriot, a home-loving citizen and devoted and faithful husband. Such, however, was the case, for Mr. Dean, whose true name is Frank S. Leavitt, boasts of 17 years with the colors, including the period of the war, and he writes of Mrs. Dean as "my wife and pal."

BACCALAUREATE FOR SENIOR HIGH GRADS SUNDAY

Rev. Swoyer Delivers Sermon At Services At First Lutheran Church.

Baccalaureate services for 287 members of the June graduating class of Senior high school will be held at 7:30 p. m. Sunday at the First Lutheran church.

The sermon will be delivered by Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, pastor of the church. His subject will be "Choosing The Better Part."

The class, the largest in the history of the school, will attend the services in a body, attired in caps and gowns. Members of the Senior high school faculty will be guests at the service.

Music during the service will be furnished by the church choir directed by L. A. Cook.

During the 9:45 a. m. service Sunday, Rev. Swoyer will have as his guests some 200 members of the 134th Field Artillery of Ohio of which Rev. Swoyer is chaplain. The national guardsmen will be in Mansfield to take part in the Liberty park dedication in the afternoon.

BEGINS SUMMER SCHEDULE

Inauguration of the summer schedule of services at St. Mark's Lutheran church will begin Sunday, Rev. J. Louis Wolf, pastor, announced today.

Under the new schedule Sunday school will begin at 9:15 a. m., and the church worship hour will begin at 10 a. m.

The summer schedule will be in effect during the months of June, July and August.

FIFTH SESSION MONDAY

The fifth and next to last session of the International Standard Leadership Training school, postponed last week because of Memorial day, will be held at 7 p. m. Monday at the First Methodist Episcopal church.

Courses in the school are being taught by Prof. James Anderson of Wooster college, assisted by Mansfield pastors and religious workers.

PREACHES HERE

Akron Pastor To Conduct 2-Week Revival at Lincoln Heights.

Rev. Wilmer A. Petry of Akron will conduct a two-week series of evangelistic meetings at the Lincoln Heights Church of the Brethren beginning Monday evening.

The services will continue each night until June 19, at 7:45. Rev. Petry is pastor of the Eastwood Church of the Brethren in Akron.

MUSIC PROGRAM

Solo, Choral Numbers To Be Sung At Baptist Service.

A program of solo and choral music will be presented Sunday at the Park Avenue Baptist church during the church service at 10:30 a. m.

As a solo Willis E. Wygant, jr., will sing Forsyth's arrangement of the "Lord's Prayer," and the senior choir directed by Lawrence S. Frank, will sing, "Lo a Voice to Heaven Sounding," by Bortniansky. Three selections will be played by Frank, "Pres de la Mer," by Arensky, "Consolation," by Mendelssohn, and "Fugue in D Major," by J. S. Bach.

Meetings of three groups of the church will be held next week. The Senior World Wide Guild meets at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday at the home of Edna May Boswell, 264 Park avenue west, with Ruth Murray as associate hostess.

The monthly meeting of the Women's Union will be held at 10 a. m. Wednesday at the church. Reports of the Northern Baptist convention at Milwaukee will be given by Mrs. M. E. Hulit and Miss Hazel McMeekin delegates. Luncheon will be served at noon by members of Circle 1.

A meeting of the church finance committee will be held at the church at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday. Tolman Burns, chairman, will preside.

TAKES POST AT CHURCH HERE

Young People's Worker Employed By Congregationalists.

The employment of Miss Ruth West of Cedarville, O., as young people's worker at the First Congregational church, was announced today by Rev. Peter Young, pastor.

Miss West is a graduate of Cedarville college, and for the past two years has studied at the Oberlin Graduate School of Theology, where she received the Master of Arts degree in Religious education at commencement exercises last Monday. Miss West began her new duties Wednesday.

A reception for Miss West will be given in the church parlors at 8 p. m. Tuesday by the Pilgrim Guild.

CONFIRMS 10 AT ST. PAUL CHURCH

Rev. Gilbert Will Conduct Rites For Catechetical Group Tomorrow.

Confirmation exercises for 10 members of the senior catechetical class at St. Paul Lutheran church will be held at 10 a. m. Sunday during the morning worship.

The seven boys and three girls who make up the class have been instructed over a two-year period by the pastor, Rev. Herman L. Gilbert.

For this service Rev. Gilbert will preach on the subject, "Anchors That Hold The Soul." Members of the class are Hazel Gilbert, Betty Hahn, Donald Hipp, Mary Ann Linn, Alfred Pasheilich, Jane Pasheilich, Betty Rowe, Ruth Spellman, Leonard Wappner, and Margery Wappner.

Meetings of organizations of the church next week are the church council at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday in the church parlors, and the Mary Markley society at 6 p. m. Thursday at the North Lake park pavillion. The meeting will be preceded by a covered-dish supper. Miss Helen Boyer will act as hostess, and Miss Louis Seybold will present the topic.

Assembly Speaker

Mrs. C. E. Gardner, above, national president of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Lutheran Church In America, will be the principal woman speaker at the Lutheran Assembly to be held at the Miami Valley Chautauqua, June 12 to 16, at which Luther League members from the five Mansfield Lutheran churches will attend. In conjunction with the assembly the 43rd annual convention of the Luther League of Ohio will be held.

SINGS SUNDAY

Mansfielder To Be Guest At Presbyterian Service.

Jack Wilson, a graduate of the Oberlin Conservatory of Music, will be guest soloist Sunday during the 10:30 a. m. service at the First Presbyterian church.

Wilson, a Mansfield resident, has also studied in New York, and at present is a student of Miss Florence MacDonald. As his solo he will sing, "Thine to Glory," by Bizet.

Other musical numbers during the service will include the singing of "The Soft Sabbath Calm," by the senior choir directed by Mrs. C. O. Anglin, and the playing of two selections by Mrs. A. L. Twitchell, church organist. Mrs. Twitchell will play "Cantabile," by Franck and "Gothic March," by Toschinsi.

Rev. David N. Roller, pastor will preach on the subject, "Bringing Reality Into Religion."

PLEDGES HELP

Crawford To Join Richland In Road Transfer Campaign.

The Richland county highway department today had received the promise to help form Crawford county officials in its campaign to add three more county roads to the state highway system.

Commissioners and engineers from the two counties, meeting jointly yesterday at Bucyrus, agreed to combine their efforts to obtain the necessary right-of-ways for the transfers.

Obstacles have been cleared in Richland county, and it is expected that the transfers will be approved by the state highway department by July 1, County Engineer Howard C. Sword said.

The routes for which the counties hope to get state maintenance include the Shelby-Bucyrus road, Shelby-Tiro road and Lexington-Galion road. They total six miles in Richland county.

SCIENTIST TOPIC

'God The Only Cause and Creator' Will Be Sunday Subject.

"God The Only Cause and Creator" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Church of Christ Scientist, on Sunday.

The Golden Text is: "Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive glory and honour and power: for thou hast created all things, and for thy pleasure they are and were created" (Revelation 4:11.)

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Give thanks unto the Lord, call upon his name, make known his deeds among the people . . Glory ye in his holy name: let the heart of them rejoice that seek the Lord." (I Chronicles 16:8,10.)

YOUNG PEOPLE TO MEET

An all-day meeting of young people of the Apostolic church, 307 North Mulberry street, will be held at the church. The Mansfield young people will be joined by young people from the Church of Christ of Columbus.

The Americas Face the World.

'UNARMED' CANADA COUNTS ON U. S. IN EVENT OF AGGRESSION

Editor's Note—This is a second of a series of articles explaining how the United States would aid its neighbors in the event of invasion. Canada is the subject of Alexander R. George, Associated Press staff writer, who has made a study of the problem of defending this hemisphere.

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
(AP Feature Service Writer)

WASHINGTON — Citizens of our "good neighbor" Canada used to feel pretty safe because they seemed isolated from potential enemy countries. Now they are becoming invasion-conscious as war alarms reverberate around the world.

With Mother Britain arming to the teeth in the face of European tension, members of the Canadian parliament are urging a strengthening of home defenses. Reports hint of "mysterious" movements of heavy guns from one coast to another.

Canada's remoteness from expansion-hungry powers and her cordial relations with next-door United States have made a large peacetime military establishment seem unnecessary. Moreover, Canadians have counted upon Britain's warships to hold off a possible invasion of their eastern coast.

But probably the most comforting antidote for Dominion fears has been the belief that "the strong right arm of Uncle Sam" would be lifted against an aggressor who carried the fight to the Canadians' home grounds. Defense Minister Ian Mackenzie said recently:

"Just as the British navy on the Atlantic is our greatest security in that quarter so I think it might be reasonable to assume that in a major conflagration we should have friendly fleets upon the Pacific ocean."

Canadian hopes for U. S. aid in a pinch are based roughtly on:

1. The Monroe Doctrine under which the United States views as an unfriendly act any attempt by a European or Asiatic nation to deprive an American state of territory or the right of self-government by force.

Outside of the general assurances of the Monroe Doctrine, this country is not committed to the military protection of Canada. So students of international affairs find it conceivable that the United States would remain neutral if Canada became involved in a war between Great Britain and another power.

Btu they find it difficult to imagine the United States remaining placid if foreign troops actually were blasting their way into Vancouver or planes were dropping body-mangling bombs on Toronto and Montreal. Among many U. S. citizens, the bombing of those nearby cities would stir almost the same resentment as air raids on Buffalo and Detroit.

2. The "realistic" viewpoint that the United States, with its long unfortified northern border, could not afford to allow the conquest of Canada with the probable setting up of a strong military establishment.

Resistance against a surprise attack on this country by way of the Dominion has long been an important part of secret U. S. defense plans.

Canada's own first line of defense is a volunteer militia of about 53,000, a dozen or so batteries of coast artillery, some 85 batteries of light and medium artillery, a half dozen destroyers and about 100 modern aircraft. Compared with the military establishment of even tiny Yugoslavia, Canada is "unarmed."

Adviser Tells Girl She Did Right

By VIRGINIA LEE

Sometimes when I am writing this column I would give anything in the world to be talking to the person who writes to me for help. Words that are printed seem so inadequate to reach out and help the suffering one. I feel I MUST get to them, put my arms around them and make them feel my sympathy and will to aid.

Such a letter has just come to me. The writer is a girl and I cannot even print her letter, but it is, of course, a love problem.

CHIN UP: Dear, you did just right. If you had given way you would have regretted it all your life. You can grieve for your loss, but you have done nothing to be ashamed of and to disgrace your family. This man proved that he was as selfish as he told you he was by tempting you so. I marvel at your strength to resist. Try to rest in that knowledge. You will suffer for a long time, maybe, but life goes on, and in time you will find peace, believe me.

As to your handicap. It did not prevent this very attractive man from falling in love with you, so why lose your self-confidence? Your letter reveals you as a very wonderful girl, whom anyone may be proud to love. Please don't let this "get you down." Can't you go away for a while, to a place you won't be expected to be the "life of the party"? It would rest you just to let down and maybe grieve for a while. Then you could take up your life again and be ready for whatever comes.

As to this other boy, ask him to go with you and your sister. Helping him will help you, and no one could consider such a move on your part anything but sweet and friendly.

* * *

DOVES: If you refuse to go with a boy when he asks you for a date he won't be as likely to ask you again, because he will think you don't like him. If he is very much attracted to you, however, he may try his luck again.

If a boy asks you to go to a certain place, and there is no good reason for objecting, agree to go. If he asks you where you would like to go, tell him. When out for the first time with a boy from another town, act just as you would with a boy from your own town, only maybe you will like to ask him questions and show an interest in his home town. No, don't be a kissing bug or encourage the boy to be one. And don't tell a boy you love him unless he asks you and you feel it is a wise admission.

My Neighbor Says:

There are two kinds of insects, those that suck and those that chew. When a chewing insect gets through with a leaf it looks like a piece of lace. You may destroy this type of insect by spraying with arsenate of lead (poison).

If crust on hot bread is baked too hard, grease, and place in open window and it will soften.

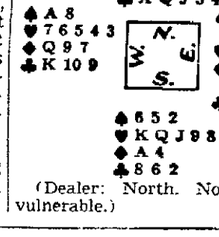
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

WEAKNESS ADVERTISED

Repeated overcalls by your partner against vulnerable opponents who keep on to game despite them, do not necessarily proclaim any defensive strength in his hand. In fact they frequently advertise weakness more definitely than if he had not bid at all. With great length in his own suits and corresponding shortage in the hostile ones, he may be striving with might and main to find a sacrifice fit with you against probable powerful holdings.



(Dealer: North. North - South vulnerable.)

The bidding on this deal was started by North with 1 - Club, which East overcalled with 1-Spade. South now called 2-Hearts, which West passed. North rebid his clubs at the three level and East put in a bid of 3-Diamonds. After 3-Hearts by South, North took the contract to 4-Hearts. East passed this but West decided to double in view of the fact that he held five hearts and his partner had been able to put in bids of two suits.

It should have been quite evident to West that East's hand was of very doubtful value if the vulnerable opponents were not deterred from bidding to game in spite of his bids.

The double cost East-West plenty of points, for South succeeded in making not only his contract but two overtricks.

Double Chin? Here's Way To End It

By JULIET SHELBY

(Central Press Writer on Beauty)

Every day you see more girls wearing hats with chin straps. No wonder, because they are both smart and youthful, but beware of the strap if it will show a billowing of little double chins beneath it.

You really need to have a young, sculptured clean-cut chin and jaw line of flaunt a bow under your chin. So if you haven't got the line for it and long for one of these chapeaux—then the thing to do is to get a well chiseled jaw. There is nothing more pathetic and ridiculous than a jaunty bow hidden in folds of fat. It emphasizes the lady's chubbiness and ages her right before your eyes. As a matter of fact, double chins add more age to the face than anything else. So hatted or bareheaded you'll drop years from your looks if you'll make up your mind to settle for one chin and keep a clean contour.

The first thing to remember in getting proud, firm chin lines is to hold your head up. Lift your head out of that hangdog position. It will immediately make you feel better about life and will add assurance and grace to your general appearance. Make a habit of holding your head high and you will have won half the battle.

A few exercises done daily will also hasten the reconstruction. First sit down and rest your elbows on a table. Hold a book in the palms of your hands, one end in the right palm, the other in the left. Put your chin on the book.

Open your mouth and jaws as wide as you can and then press the book firmly against your chin. Count ten slowly, as you gradually permit your jaws to be forced shut while resisting as hard as you can the upward pressure of the book. Now, with your jaws shut and the book in the same position, count ten slowly while you gradually try to force your jaws apart and open your mouth against the firm resistance of the book held in the palms of your hands.

Wear Chin Strap.

With the next exercise you should wear a chin strap. Apply a little rich lubricating cream and then put on your chin strap over the cream. When you have done this you are ready for the exercise. Place your hands on your shoulders with the thumbs braced against your shoulder blades. Keep your elbows close to your body and slowly push them forward, at the same time opening your mouth against the resistance of the chin strap and raising your chest. Then thrust your head back as far as it will go until it rests on the top of the spine. Slowly lift as if to pull the top of your head to the ceiling, but keep your chin in. When you are raising your head, feel it lifting from the back of the ears, closing your mouth slowly. Repeat this ten times.

This routine will streamline your chin in record time and bring back that young sculptured look that's so necessary with this year's fashions.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I made slow progress down the hall to Dicky's room where I had left Junior, for I was in earnest debate with myself as to what I should say to him.

The temptation was strong upon me to praise him lovingly for the way in which he had conducted himself during the trying contretemps with Roderick which he had just experienced. I could not do that, however, without his knowing that Katherine and I had been hidden witnesses to the scene. We had had no choice about that espionage. It had been a matter of discipline forced upon us, for we did not realize Bill's watchfulness, and felt that we must be on the spot ready to act should Roderick goad Junior too far.

But I feared that the immature mind of my son might not differentiate between necessary parental watchfulness and plain, ordinary "snooping," as his vocabulary would put it. I could not risk either small lad knowing of our spying, although I was resolved that I would seize the earliest possible opportunity to tell Bill of my gratitude to him for his watchfulness, and his forceful, yet tactful, handling of a most trying situation.

I knocked softly on the door, and Junior's voice called in low, eager tones, "Is that you, Mums?"

Feels Good Now.

"Yes, Darling," I answered, and the next instant the door was unlocked and flung open, and my young son's warm, compelling hands were pulling me through the doorway. He released me only long enough to shut the door again and relock it. Then he flung both arms about me and hugged me ecstatically.

"Gee! I feel so good!" he happily exclaimed. "What do you think just happened?"

"Perhaps you'd better tell me," I parried, watching him closely.

His face was suddenly thoughtful and a bit perplexed.

"I can't tell you everything," he said at last, "for that would be snitching."

"Of course you mustn't do that," I returned promptly. "But I'll be glad to hear everything you think you can tell me."

"C'mon and sit down," he urged, pulling me to a chair. When he had seated me, he pulled up an ottoman close to my knee.

Tell All He Can.

"Now," he said, looking up at me trustfully, "we're all set, and I'll tell you everything I dast."

"I'm listening," I said sedately, and he drew a long, preliminary breath. Evidently the recital was to be the traditional passage between Scylla and Charyodis.

"You know I told you I thought old Rod would be more comfortable if I left him to your bathroom by himself and came over here?"

"Yes, I remember."

"Well! that wasn't all the reason. You see, me and Rod—Rod and I—have been having one or two run-ins, more my fault than his, well! as much my fault as his," he amended, as honesty triumphed over generosity, "and I didn't want any more while Hank was home because—"

Everything Settled.

His voice trailed away, and I guessed that he was considering how to avoid the bugbear of "snitching."

"But, anyway, it's all over and settled," he went on. "Something happened while you were with Faith and Aunt Katherine. I don't want to tell you what it was, but afterward old Rod came out mighty white and square, and we shook hands 'n everything. We're pals again, and I'm awful glad."

"So am I, Darling," I said, "and I don't think you need worry about Hank, either. Bill is taking him in hand. Of course, keep out of his way as much as you wish, but I'm sure he won't bother you while he's home."

"Okay," he answered, and then with the light-hearted shifting of topic, so characteristic of children once one of their troublesome problems has been solved, he sprang up and went over to the table where he had been looking over his father's drawings.

"I put all Dad's drawings back as you told me," he said. "But I didn't know what to do with this. It isn't a drawing, and it looked as if it had been stuck among them by mistake. I thought you'd better see it."

He held out to me a number of sheets of paper fastened with a clip and covered with oddly-assorted columns of figures in Dicky's unmistakable hand.

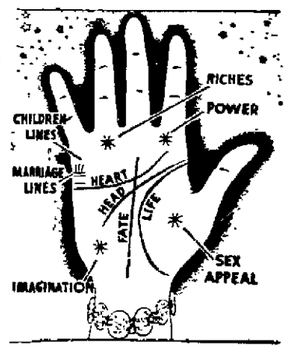
Fun In Your Palms? Learn to Read Them.



Your Fortune's In Your Hands.

How do you go about reading palms?

Fun to hunt first for special gifts, indicated by tiny criss-cross lines that form a starlike pattern.

How alluring are you to the opposite sex? A star on the mount below the thumb means you're practically irresistible.

A star at the base of the first finger promises power. Chances are you're destined for a big executive job or leadership in club affairs.

Riches? If there's a star below your third finger, you're lucky about money. You may strike oil, win the sweepstakes, or make a fortune in business.

Talent? If the mount opposite the thumb is starred, you've a vivid, creative imagination. Maybe you can write.

What do Heart, Head, Life, and Fate lines say? The horizontal lines below the little finger which represent marriage? Vertical ones stand for children.

THEATER

WHEN you see "Alexander's Rag Time Band," you'll notice at once that a lapse of 27 years takes place in the course of the film and that none of the characters age appreciably. This isn't oversight, the produced explains, it's dramatic license. The picture had a splash preview in Hollywood, at which there was so much ermine and so many orchids that it seemed like happy days are here again in the firm capital. Irving Berlin—the picture's a cavalcade of Berlin tunes—was there in person to see himself portrayed on the screen by Tyrone Power. Most of the outstanding hits written by Berlin over a long period of years, are brought into the picture.

* * *

"Crime School."

Previewed here recently, "Crime School," attracted an invited audience made up of law enforcement officers, school heads, social workers and others interested in juvenile delinquency problems. Those who saw it were enthusiastic about it as an entertainment feature and as an educational force for parents and boys. The action centers around the old type of reform school, "crime school," which has given way largely all over the country to a modernized industrial school. It shows how boys graduated into jails and penitentiaries from these crime schools. The story is dramatically told with Humphrey Bogart and Gale Page in the adult roles and the boys portrayed by the baddies of "Dead End." The picture opens at the Madison at a midnight matinee tonight.

"Vivacious Lady."

A pretty state of affairs develops in "Vivacious Lady" when a sedate young college professor goes to New York to find his black sheep cousin who has gone on a binge and falls in love with a night club singer, whom he marries and takes back to his apartment in the college town. When the town finds out that she's in his apartment but doesn't find out about the marriage—there's action. Ginger Rogers stars in this fast moving romantic comedy with James Stewart. Frances Mercer has the role of the rival and she and Ginger stage a feminine version of a slugging match. The picture, the second straight comedy Miss Rogers has done, opened today at the Ohio for a four day engagement.

"Frisco Kid."

For the first two days of the week the Majestic presents two reissues of big box office attractions, with James Cagney as the star of one and Bette Davis the star of the other. "Frisco Kid" shows the red-headed Cagney as a product of the Barbary Coast, rising to power over the scarlet district, and losing everything when the Vigilanties clean up the city. An interesting love story develops between Cagney and Margaret Lindsay. Ricardo Cortez and Lili Damita are in the cast. Bette Davis is starred in "Dangerous" as a drunken harrian who had once been a great actress. Her career is ruined by the fact that every man who loves her meets a tragic end. Franchot Tone and Margaret Lindsay head a capable supporting cast.

"Bad Man of Brimstone."

The most important Wallace Beery picture in several years is "Bad Man of Brimstone," in which the big he-man character actor plays Trigger Bill, a likeable but thoroughly bad man of the West. Dennis O'Keefe, Lewis Stone, Bruce Cabot, Virginia Bruce, Joseph Calleia and Guy Kibbe are among the major players. The backgrounds are an interesting part of the picture. The action takes place in and around Brimstone in the 1880's where Trigger is a notorious outlaw and bandit. A roaring comedy balances the bill at the Ritz. Joe E. Brown's "Fit For a King" brings the wide mouthed comedian for the Sunday and Monday program. Helen Mack is the chief feminine interest.

CHAPTER XXII.

"I've been having quite a talk with my uncle. I just left him."

"Was he pickin' on you about somethin' in the business?"

"Well, yes . . . and no. Uncle and I haven't been pulling very well together. I had made up my mind that it would be best for me to leave here. In fact, I gave him notice . . ."

"Oh, Mr. Clay, you wouldn't leave him!"

"Well, it isn't as simple as all that, Annie. I just found out tonight that he's been keeping me, so to speak. He's paid for my education and everything from the time I was a kid. Now, he thinks I owe him something. On the face of it, he's right."

"Yes, he did."

"He told me that you had been a witness to an agreement between him and my father . . . that I could ask you about it."

"It's the gospel truth, Mr. Clay. Mrs. Wardlaw told me all about it, too. She often spoke of it, poor lady. She was always looking forward to the time when you'd be coming here to live. She was a lonesome soul."

"I can imagine she might have been, at that," Clay agreed. "But I can't see why the old gentleman had to take it out on me. I suppose that sounds pretty ungrateful, but it's the toughest news I've ever had."

"I can tell you why," Annie informed him bluntly. "Maybe I shouldn't open my mouth about it, but it's no secret to most of the older folks here in town. It'll help you to understand a lot you don't know."

"What do you mean, Annie?"

"This. Your mother was younger and heaps prettier than her sister . . . Mrs. Wardlaw, I mean. All the young fellows in town were crazy about her, and your uncle was the craziest one of the lot. John Odell cut him out, as the sayin' is. Your uncle never could bear anybody gettin' the best of him."

"So he turned around and married my mother's sister," Clay mused.

"That's right. Out of spite, everybody said. Mr. Wardlaw never forgave your father . . . that's what I meant when I told you the two of 'em didn't get along like they should, on account of them bein' married to sisters."

"Dad never would talk about it," Clay remarked. "But I knew there was something wrong. I didn't suppose it had anything to do with me, though."

"Well, it did. Mr. Wardlaw always wanted children and his wife . . . well, she never was very happy afterwards," Annie explained tactfully. "I reckon Mr. Wardlaw thought you should have been his son, by rights, and so he went and done what he did. He's queer. I s'pose I know him better'n anybody else and I know he likes you. If you was to leave him, I believe he'd fret himself sick. And he ain't so strong this last year."

"I'm going to give him back every penny he ever spent on me, Annie," Clay announced resolutely. "I've got to. I suppose I could do it sooner by sticking with him and taking what he gives me. It will be more than I can make anywhere else for a long time. But . . ."

"But what?"

"Why, don't you see? He'll think that gives him the right to tell me what I should do about everything . . . who I can have for friends."

"Umph. So that's what's stickin' in your craw, is it? You know, your mother was the spunkiest little woman I ever knew. I guess she's one of the few around here who wouldn't knuckle down to your uncle. You got her eyes, too."

"Meaning?"

"Meanin' if I was a grown man and wanted to be friends with a nice child like Larry Layne, I'd like to see anybody stop me."

"I see. You know that, too."

"Mr. Clay, this is the most know-it-your-business town you ever was in. Just the same I mean it. There's some parts of your life you can live better for yourself than havin' somebody tell you how. And now I got to go up and set a patch on Jeremy's overalls so he can have 'em in the morning."

"Thank you very much, Annie, for telling me what you did," Clay said, getting to his feet. "And for your advice. It sounds very good. But I've got to think it all over. Good night."

"Good night, Mr. Clay, and don't you worry. Everythin' will turn out all right. It most always does, I've noticed."

In spite of Annie Kime's assurance, Clay mulled his problem over in his mind far into the night, sitting by an open window and staring out into the warm blackness, smoking innumerable cigarets.

* * *

The whole picture of his past had changed, clearer in many spots, but not very pretty. He was conscious above all of a feeling of having been let down. He had been very fond of his father, especially as he grew older and fostered the realization that John Odell was sacrificing much to give his boy the opportunities he never had enjoyed himself. For that reason, Clay had been easily influenced when his father insisted that he fit himself for a business career. That he obtain as broad a training as possible, familiarize himself with the problem that confronts executives rather than take his training in the ranks of the employed. It all sounded logical. Young Clayton had applied himself, took pride in the quality of his scholarship. Some day, his father would be proud, too.

And, all the time, it hadn't been his father who was making the future so radiantly possible. It was that hard little man in the next room, always back of the scenes, pulling the strings that made his puppets perform. If his father only had given him some inkling before he went away. He probably would have done it. But his last illness was sudden and John Odell had lost interest in the things of this world when his boy reached his bedside.

Too late, now. The question was, what to do?

The easy out was to stay, make the best of things and trust to luck. In a way, it would make life easier to be near Larry. But, would it? It meant trouble. He would always love her. That meant fresh obstacles. On the other hand, if he went away, it would salve his wounded pride. And it would also defer the culmination of his most cherished dream, a dream that grew dearer each day. One thing was sure, only one.

He would have to see Larry as soon as he might. He would tell her the whole story and see what she thought. If only she loved him, if only she could tell him that she would wait years if they must . . .

But she didn't love him. Not yet. If she were to tell him she never could, that would simplify matters. And he couldn't bear that, either.

His problem was as far from settled as ever after a few restless hours in bed.

* * *

When Clay met his uncle at breakfast, the latter acted as if that interview in the library the night before was entirely forgotten. He greeted his nephew in his usual perfunctory manner and went on reading the paper which he sometimes brought to the table. This morning he offered some acrid remarks concerning the headlines.

Clay studied him contemplatively through a screen of cigaret smoke. An unbelievable person. Apparently, he could not accommodate himself to the idea that his plans and wishes could be balked. So sure of his ability to mold others to his will that he could ignore any suggestions to the contrary. To look at him now, one would think that everything was settled.

Well, there was no good in reopening the issue this morning, the young man decided as he swallowed the last of his coffee. He still felt that he could come to no real conclusion until he had talked to Larry. Unless some unusual excuse presented itself, he would have to defer a call at her home for a few days.

To add to his perplexities, the morning mail brought him a letter from John Oglebay. Clay opened it with a little thrill of anticipation. Maybe his old boss was offering him a chance to come back. It might be the solution to it all.

And it wasn't.
